INDUSTRIAL PLANS OF F. D. R. LAUDED BY LABOR GROUP

George L. Berry, Roosevelt's Co-ordinator, Sees Legal Way of 'Furthering Liberalism' If High Court Kills More Laws.

LABOR SECRETARY ASKS CO-OPERATION

Green, President of A. F. of L., Warned by Own Union To Cease Opposition Against Its Policies.

By The Associated Press.

The new Roosevelt industrial program drew loud applause from the American Federation of Labor convention at Tampa, Fla., Wednesday as a new development appeared in labor's internal strife.

Even as the A. F. of L. met in Florida, its President William Green was warned by the executive board of his own union, the United Mine Workers, at a session in Washington, that he must cease opposition to its policies or "assume the full responsibility of his disloyalty."

Two White House emissaries, Secretary Frances Perkins and George L. Berry, President Roosevelt's co-ordinator for industrial corporations, outlined the Roosevelt program at the Tampa meeting.

Berry predicted presidential election results would lead the supreme court to an about face in judging New Deal legislation and added he "ventured we will find a legal way of furthering liberalism" if the judicial body kills more New Deal laws.

Co-operation between labor and industry was the keynote in the messages Miss Perkins and Berry delivered.

Meanwhile, Green was drawing the warning from the United Mine Workers' executive board at that body's meeting in Washington.

In issuing the warning to the A. F. of L. president, the board thus ordered Green to drop the fight against the Committee for Industrial Organization in which the mine workers and nine other unions have banded to encourage unionization of mass production workers by industry instead of by craft.

F. D. R. IS EN ROUTE TO BUENOS AIRES

Roosevelt To Address Pan-American Peace Conference on Dec. 1.

ABOARD THE U. S. S. CHESTER AT SEA, Nov. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt aboard the cruiser Indianapolis and escorted by the Chester was 200 miles off the Florida coast tonight on a momentous journey to the Pan-American peace conference at Buenos Aires.

Averaging 25 knots, the cruiser headed southeast through the Gulf stream for either Mona Passage between Haiti and Puerto Rico or Anegada Passage east of the Virgin Islands.

The party was due at Trinidad Saturday.

The Indianapolis, flying the Presidential flag, was running 800 yards ahead of her escort at full steam.

Spends Day Resting

The President spent his first day out of Charleston in restful relaxation and said that speed would be maintained throughout the voyage.

The sea was moderate and all hands prepared to change to white dress to meet the first approach to the tropics.

As his ship steamed out of the Charleston (S. C.) harbor this morning, Fort Moultrie's batteries, roared out the 21-gun presidential salute. He had been piped aboard with two such salutes.

To Address Meeting. Mr. Roosevelt will address the Buenos Aires conference on December 1. His welcome in Charleston was colorful by ceremony. Met at the train by Governor Olin D. Johnson and state and navy dignitaries, the President was received aboard by officers in full dress and cocked hats.

From his train to the dock he rode through two miles of streets lined with thousands of persons.

His journey will take him some.

$77,482 REPORTED RAISED FOR CHEST AFTER FIRST DAY

Success for Campaign Is Seen as More and Larger Contributions Come From Groups Contacted

Off to a flying start, workers in the Community Chest campaign reported that $77,482 had been raised through yesterday.

This amount was brought in at the first report rally of workers yesterday when the division directors reported enthusiasm and co-operation from all sides and large increases in the number and amounts of pledges.

"I believe the Community Chest campaign this year will be an outstanding success," Frank H. Neely, former president of the Chest, told the assembled workers.

More Joyous Campaign

"This campaign is happier, more joyous than in years, because we are finding that in giving more generously we give expression to our thanks for better times."

"The Community Chest must be understood as a thing which draws in more people than anything else in Atlanta. No church, no creed, no society, no club or group of clubs is so inclusive."

"As you go out, each of you is preaching a sermon by your service." A total of $4,712.95 was reported by three of the four divisions, made up entirely of women workers. The division of church women, headed by Mrs. Alva Maxwell and Mrs. J. C. Boehm speaks.

Julian V. Boehm, president of the Chest, told the workers:

JUDGE DISMISSES WHITLEY PETITION

Marietta Jurist Voids Suit Seeking To Halt Road Board Letting.

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Judge J. H. Hawkins dismissed tonight a petition filed by Grover C. Whitley, of LaGrange, in an attempt to prevent the State Highway Department from proceeding with a scheduled $1,700,000 road contract letting.

The judge upheld a demurrer entered in behalf of the highway board by Attorney General M. J. Yeomans which contended that Whitley had shown no cause of action in his petition and that the state had not consented to the suit and therefore could not be sued.

The demurrer denied that the prospective letting, slated for Friday, violated the state's debt limit. He declared Whitley had no right to attempt to take charge of or attempt to direct operation of a department of the state government.

Whitley's petition charged the letting would be unlawful and unconstitutional. At the start of the hearing, today, his attorney, Duke Davis, of LaGrange, amended the petition with the charge that the contracts to be let Friday were to "pay political debts of the defendants."

The defendant was listed as Raymond Smith, 32, of 69 Simpson street. He posted $200 bond on charges of violation of the beer ordinance, failing to state a nuisance and disorderly conduct, cursing.

Smith was arrested when Radio Patrolmen R. V. Paschel and E. P. Payne saw him allegedly making a beer sale at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning. He will be arraigned Monday morning in recorder's court.

Cobb Says: Gotham Hasn't Changed

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—After two years' absence, I found New York not greatly changed. It's still difficult for a man who speaks English to get about downtown. But then, in a jam, you can always appeal to the American consul. If the United States government doesn't keep one here, it should. I'm hoping to find a few tattered banners of Indian summer in sheltered corners on the way back west again. You see, about the only autumnal coloring we get in southern California is when a movie producer turns greenish-yellow because some rival producer's ultra-mastodontic production is outstripping his own pet super-supreme production.

TUGWELL RESIGNS HOUSING POSITION

Dr. W. W. Alexander, Atlanta, To Succeed Resettlement Administrator.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(UP)—Resettlement Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell, whose resignation has been accepted by President Roosevelt, will become executive vice president of the American Molasses Company, in New York.

Dr. W. W. Alexander, assistant RA administrator, probably will take over Tugwell's government position—around January 1.

In returning to private life Tugwell, one of the original New Deal brain trusters, will join two other men who also were influential advisers in the early days of the New Deal. They are Charles W. Taussig, president of the American Molasses Company, and A. A. Berle Jr., a director.

Tugwell's resignation was no surprise. Washington has been gossiping for months that the curly-haired former professor at Columbia University was anxious to retire from government service. He bore much of the attack that Republicans made against the New Deal during the presidential campaign, and friends said the only reason Tugwell did not resign sooner was that he did not want to quit under fire.

Thinking of Resigning. He admitted in Memphis that he had been thinking of resigning for some time but had decided it best to wait until after the elections. In his letter of resignation he promised to be "on call" if the administration should need him again, and the President replied that "I fully expect you to come back to render additional service."

Official announcement of the resignation came 12 hours after the story first was printed in New York and brought admission that the White House staff itself was "scooped" on the matter.

Trade Pacts Lauded By Business Leaders

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Business leaders coupled optimistic reports on the nation's overseas commerce with commendation of the administration's reciprocal trade treaties tonight.

President Louis K. Csomstock, of the Merchants' Association of New York, said American foreign trade was in the best position since 1930 in an address prepared for delivery before the twenty-third national foreign trade convention. He added:

"Our exports have increased 72 per cent from the fiscal year 1932-33 to the fiscal year 1935-36. Our imports, very largely due to the increased demands of American manufacturing, have increased 90 per cent. Our foreign trade is increasing by more than 10 per cent annually or about twice the average rate of the rest of the world. Recovery is reflected by something approaching a minor boom in the foreign trade profession."

"None of us can speak too highly of the share in this notable advance that is attributable to the trade agreement program of Secretary of State Cordell Hull."

Roper Sees Upturn In Holiday Business

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The greatest Christmas business since 1929 was forecast today by Secretary Roper.

Estimating holiday department store sales would be 15 per cent above last year's, the Commerce Department chief predicted they would total around $920,000,000. This would compare with $800,000,000 in 1935 and more than $1,000,000,000 in 1929.

Roper said reports from all sections indicated "marked advance" over last year, and that business generally would be "greater than for any like period since 1929."

Roper's forecast was issued on the eve of a meeting here tomorrow of the business advisory council, composed of businessmen who act in an advisory capacity to the Commerce Department.

The session will be of special significance since it is the first since President Roosevelt's re-election.

CANAL CONTRACT UPSET BY COURT

Issuance of Bonds for Augusta Hydro-Electric Project Held Illegal.

A contract for an $867,000 hydroelectric development on the Augusta canal was upset yesterday by the state supreme court.

The court reversed Superior Judge A. L. Franklin, who had refused an injunction against the city of Augusta, Ga., which was to issue bonds for the project.

Under the plan, the Georgia Power Company would have underwritten $867,000 worth of Augusta bonds, $400,000 of which were to be used with a $193,000 PWA grant for the development.

Current for Augusta. Proceeds from the plan were to have been placed in a special sinking fund of the bonds and interest. The city would have received current for its municipal purposes.

The court said the issuance of bonds for the project by the city on January 13, 1936, was illegal.

The court said the city had no right to incur the debt without the approval of the qualified voters, the opinion said.

This, it continued, would be "in violation of the (state) constitution." The suit was brought in superior court by J. L. Cartledge, a taxpayer.

The court said arguments that the city was now deriving no revenue from the project were unavailing.

FRENCH MINISTER TAKES OWN LIFE

Salengro Leaves Note Accusing Rightists of Moral Guilt in His Death

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Socialist Minister of the Interior Roger Salengro killed himself today after penning a note laying responsibility for his act to Rightists who charged he was a World War deserter.

His body was found in the gas-filled kitchen of his little home at almost the exact spot where his wife, Leone, died 18 months ago.

Salengro's note blamed political foes for causing his wife's death also and concluded with the simple statement that he was "now going to join Leone."

As a result of his death hundreds of Leftists demonstrated in the streets tonight, blaming Rightists for his act.

A huge crowd of Leftists—crying "Down with the Fascists"—buried stones at the building of the Rightist newspaper Figaro on the Champs Elysees in Paris. Many windows were broken before police dispersed the demonstrators.

Another large party of Leftists paraded down the boulevards toward the Place de la Republique. They shouted "Gringoire assassinated Salengro!"—referring to a Rightist weekly which had attacked the war record of the minister.

Death of the 46-year-old cabinet minister and one of Premier Leon Blum's most intimate friends shook political France.

The premier hastened from Paris to Lille on receipt of the first news of Salengro's death there and went upon as he read about the farewell note.

Accuses Rightists. Wrote Salengro, twice acquitted of Rightist charges of being a war-time deserter:

"I have struggled valiantly, but I have come to the end. If they (the Rightists) do not succeed in dishonoring me, at least they shall bear the responsibility for my death, for I am neither a deserter nor a traitor."

The note referred to the Rightist "deserter" charges of October 30, of which Salengro was acquitted by a military tribunal, and by the chamber of deputies.

Even after the public exonerations, the Rightists did not cease their attacks on Salengro, and informed sources asserted new and secret charges were made against the interior minister at Tuesday's cabinet meeting.

The premier read Salengro's note, and asked the dead man's brother to read one left to him, but the brother, Henri, collapsed before he could do so. He had announced earlier the minister's death was a suicide.

While Blum mourned beside the body, the Rightists were busy.

MUSSOLINI, HITLER FEEL END IS NEAR FOR MADRID REDS

Dictators Indicate No Immediate Change in Policy of Neutrality, But Rebel Leader Says Action Assures Victory.

WILL NOT SEND AIDES TO VALENCIA

Madrid Renews Battle To Regain Ground Lost to Rebels; Hundreds Are Reported Killed.

By The Associated Press.

Italy and Germany recognized the insurgent government of General Francisco Franco Wednesday and the joint action turned the eyes of Europe momentarily away from Madrid to other capitals where early reactions were expected. But at a late hour last night France and Russia had issued no official statements of their future course and England's only word was that it is to be expected that England will continue her course of neutrality.

As the recognition was announced simultaneously in Rome and Berlin, Madrid, which underwent the most devastating bombardment of the war so far Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, counted scores of dead and presented a shell and fire-marked appearance.

Insurgents bombed the Spanish capital at dawn and throughout the day. Fascist and troops of the Socialist government exchanged artillery fire in the suburban section of University City.

TWO DICTATORS ACCORD RECOGNITION TO REBELS. ROME, Nov. 18.—Premier Mussolini made a two-hour exposition of the international and domestic political situation before the fascist grand council in Rome today, following recognition by Italy and Germany of the Spanish fascist government of insurgent General Francisco Franco.

The grand council, met to consider Italian policies for the future, also heard Mussolini's son-in-law, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

A communique said decisions of the council on international developments would be issued tomorrow.

PEIPING, Nov. 18.—(Thursday)—(Reuters)—Chinese troops, aided by artillery, routed Manchoukuoan and Mongolian invaders in a three-hour battle in the region of Hunshih in eastern Suiyuan province, said reports reaching here today.

The Chinese declared 300 of the enemy had been killed.

50 Fishermen Saved From Lake Ice Floes

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18.—(AP)—More than 50 fishermen, adrift on an ice floe in Lake Manitoba, were rescued tonight by settlers.

For a time the men were in serious danger on the cracking ice, but residents of the district—about 100 miles northwest of Winnipeg—took them off in fishing boats and canoes.

There were no casualties.

LABOR GROUP LAUDS F.D.R. WORK PROGRAM

from the American Federation of Labor's annual convention.

Co-operation between labor and industry was the keynote in messages delivered by Secretary Perkins and George L. Berry, President Roosevelt's coordinator for industrial corporations.

Miss Perkins also said the Walsh-Healy government contract act, regarded by labor as an NRA substitute, should be broadened in its scope, and that "a strong union movement" was an essential supplement to a legislative program.

Berry predicted presidential election results would lead the supreme court to an about-face in judging New Deal legislation, and said his labor-industry council would have a legislative program ready for congress before long.

Fed Is Simmering.

The election results, he added, also brought many previously antagonistic businessmen into the council.

The convention's biggest issue—the feud between John L. Lewis, who represents the United Mine Workers, and the only member of Lewis' rebel committee to come to the convention, arrived with "nothing to say."

"I have no rabbit to pull out of my hat," Zaritsky added when reporters asked him whether he had any new peace plans. Zaritsky first advanced the proposal for peace conferences by a committee representing each faction.

The federation's executive council approved it, but Lewis turned it down. Miss Perkins disclosed she was planning a conference with union leaders to discuss plans for legislation in which they are particularly interested.

She spoke of a national living wage, continuity of income, stability of employment and "guidance for the conservation and maximum utilization of natural resources," as a formula for progress.

Berry Addresses Meeting.

She also urged ratification of the child labor amendment and co-operative action by states in raising labor standards.

After saying he "ventured we will find a legal way of furthering liberalism," if the supreme court killed more New Deal laws, Berry asserted the "great task" before his council was preparation of "a sound and balanced program which will advance the general welfare by stabilizing industry."

This program, he said, must guard equally the interests of ownership, management, worker and consumer.

The founders of NRA said they were guided by the same principle.

The Spanish situation, he said, was the only one in the world which was not being handled by the United States.

William Green, federation president, answered the question was so busy and the Spanish situation so "muddled" that he doubted whether the issue could be considered on the floor.

Just before Berry's remarks on the supreme court, Eddie Sams, of Indiana, Pa., introduced a resolution calling for federal opposition to the usurped power of the supreme court to nullify legislation, and a "curb" on the "usurped powers of the judicial oligarchy."

The resolution said "the dictatorial rule of the supreme court is more and more an instrument in the hands of the reactionaries in their attempt to keep the workers in economic servitude."

The millinery workers put in a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to permit enactment of all "social justice legislation."

Of the 258 resolutions in all, 22 favored the Lewis revolt, while only three were against it.

May Succeed Tugwell

the news because a stenographer's brother-in-law underwent an operation last night.

Mr. Roosevelt received Tugwell's resignation yesterday and in the midst of hurried preparations for departure on a South American cruise, called in a stenographer and dictated his acceptance. He told her to notify his press secretary, Stephen T. Eason.

The stenographer was called to her brother-in-law's bedside and forgot to transcribe her notes or notify Eason.

Consequently there was considerable confusion when newspapers began querying the White House this morning. Early finally traced the stenographer who had taken the President's dictation and released the official announcement a day later.

Tugwell is expected to return to Washington for a clean-up of his business here after his present tour of reclamation projects with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. It is understood he will urge that RA be made a permanent agency as a part of the Agriculture Department.

Alexander, the probable new resettlement administrator, is an expert on the farm tenancy problem and is a member with Tugwell of the committee named by the President to study a long-range program to better conditions among the farmers who live on rented land. He became acquainted with Tugwell through his work as director of the Commission on Interracial Co-operation.

Tugwell, mild-mannered and soft-spoken Columbia University professor, is the last of the "Roosevelt men" who advised President Roosevelt during his 1932 campaign and the early days of his administration. He became assistant director of the Federal Farm Loan Administration and last year under-secretary. In addition, he directed RA since that agency was created last year.

ALEXANDER IS NOTED FOR INTER-RACIAL WORK

During a long and varied career of public service, Dr. W. W. Alexander has become a national figure, attaining eminence chiefly for his work as director of the Commission on Interracial Co-operation, a position he accepted shortly after the close of the World War. At present he is on leave of absence.

Alexander first became connected with the Resettlement Administration in May, 1935, but did not accept any title until some months later when he became assistant administrator. He is reported to have been interested in the resettlement program when he made a survey of the farm tenancy problem in 1933 with several prominent professors.

Following this survey the University of North Carolina Press in 1935 published the results of his findings under the title of "The Collapse of Cotton Tenancy."

Born in 1884.

He was born in 1884 at Morrisville, Mo., and first graduated from Scarritt-Morrisville College with an A. B. degree in 1908 and four years later received a B. D. degree from Vanderbilt University. He has been a member of the Southern Methodist church since 1901. He served as pastor of Belmont church in Nashville from 1912 to 1916.

After serving during the World War as associate executive secretary of the southeastern military department of the Army, Mr. C. A. Alexander became chairman of the Social Science Research Advisory committee on race studies. In 1928 he was American delegate to the International Missionary Conference held in Jerusalem.

Accepting a position as Well lecturer in 1929, he went to the University of North Carolina. In 1934 and 1935 he was a member of numerous minor commissions on economic conditions, and became assistant resettlement administrator about a year ago.

Prominent Positions.

Among his more prominent positions are: Member the Commission on Care and Education of the Negro; member board of directors of the Julius Rosenwald Fund; member board of trustees of Atlanta University; member of the Carnegie-Gammon Theological Seminary, Morehouse College and Paine College, and has served as acting president of Dillard University.

It was in 1929 Dr. Alexander received the first prize bestowed by the William E. Harmon Foundation for his outstanding work in the field of interracial relations.

Berea College and Boston University honored him with the D. D. degree in 1927 and Southern College bestowed the LL. D. degree upon him in 1930.

Dr. Alexander is married to the former Miss Mabelle A. Kinkead, of Columbus, Ohio, in 1914. His family resides at 941 Clifton road, N. E.

Skeleton Under House Proves No Mystery

Finding a human skeleton under her home at 397 Piedmont avenue, Mrs. O. A. Hobbie, who recently moved into the house, put in a frantic call to police last night.

When officers arrived at the scene of what appeared to be a first-class murder mystery, investigation revealed a doctor formerly lived in the house. The skeleton was believed to have been part of his equipment.

the joint approval of Franco's cause did not mention any changes in the nation's neutrality policies in the Civil War, but a guarded statement by the acting representative of the Burgos government at Rome indicated that Franco hoped direct aid would be the next step.

German and Italian approval, said the Burgos envoy, Admiral Antonio Magaz, "will change the 'rights' of the situation in regard to neutrality as it concerns the position of the Burgos government and those who have recognized it, and the other member nations of the non-intervention committee. But this latter point will have to be discussed by the committee."

While the eyes of the world turned toward other capitals of Europe Madrid itself enjoyed a day of comparative quiet following the most severe bombardment of the war Tuesday night.

(The German recognition announcement was almost identical with the Italian communiqué, but official circles in Berlin intimated the reich did not intend to bolt the neutrality pact as a sequel to recognition.)

The Italian announcement, of the joint action with Germany had been expected for some time because of the political similarity in many phases of the Franco cause and the regimes in Italy and Germany.

Reasons for the move were cited as Franco's "taking possession of the greater part of Spain," and the "lack of exercise of responsible governing power" in the remaining sections of the country held by the Popular Front government.

With the approval of Premier Mussolini, it was announced, the Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano would send immediately a charge d'affaires to open diplomatic relations with Franco.

Recognition indicated that, Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini felt Madrid already was as good as captured by Franco, because previously the two governments had indicated formal approval would be announced only after the fall of Madrid.

The text of the Italian communiqué: Recognize Government.

"In consequence of the fact that General Franco has taken possession of the greater part of Spain and the development of a situation which shows with increasing clarity that in the remaining part of Spain one cannot speak of the exercise of a responsible governing power, the Fascist government has decided to recognize the government of General Franco and to send to that government a charge d'affaires to begin diplomatic relations."

"The charge d'affaires will go there immediately. The present diplomatic representatives of the Government of the Republic (the Government of the Republic) have been recalled."

(The Berlin announcement, made through the official government news agency, was virtually identical, except that the "reich" was substituted for "the Fascist government.")

An Italian official declined to add anything to the text of the communiqué, but said the "reich" was the "Fascist government."

The joint action by Germany and Italy, it was announced, had been agreed upon during the recent Berlin visit of Italian Foreign Minister Ciano, who had other accords between the two nations were completed.

After the official communiqué, the Italian press bureau said Mussolini would recognize no other government in Spain. This would mean that even should the present constituted Madrid government formally transfer power to the Insurgents, Italy and Germany would still consider the regime of Franco the legal Spanish government.

The secretary to the Spanish embassy to the quirked declined comment, saying he had not been officially informed of the action.

The move by Germany and Italy was the first European powers formally to approve the provisional government of General Franco.

Portugal has been reported seriously considering such a move, and Salvador and Guatemala have already backed Franco's regime.

Informed persons expressed belief that the Italian move would be the most likely choice for the Burgos ambassadorship.

Italy's recall of representatives to the Madrid Insurgent government would apply to but a couple of diplomats now in Alicante.

Ambassador Orazio Pedrazzi and first and second secretaries of the embassy are in Saint Jean de Luz, France. The military and naval attaches, also accredited to Portugal, are in Lisbon.

Those in Alicante are Charge d'Affaires Cittiuti and Consul Vignitti, who are attending to consular matters.

Working in the daytime, these two men have been spending nights aboard an Italian ship in the harbor.

In Rome a half-dozen Spanish diplomats will be recognized. Formerly

INCUMBENTS TRAIL IN ELECTION AT ROME

ROME, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Incumbents were traced tonight in six city commissioners' races with approximately 1,500 votes of 4,323 counted.

Those leading were L. F. McKoy, J. Smith, John W. Corley, S. C. Hall, John Farbrough, John Corley, A. F. Routledge, H. H. Keel and Ed M. Camp. Only in the first ward, where R. L. Wilson was close at McKoy's heels, was the race anything like close.

In the race for city Democratic committee, those leading late tonight were John Cantrell, W. A. Patton, Clifford Hanson, John W. Quarles, Henry G. Stoffregen, James A. Formby, Fred Addington, W. A. Knowles and W. L. Burkhalter.

In one ward, the fifth, Ed Salmou and H. W. Buckner were running neck and neck.

The apparent winners for commissioner formed a ticket in opposition to the present city administration.

Corley and Keel were the only members of the present city commission who were leading tonight, they joining in the opposition ticket.

The commissioners take office January 1 and name a city manager.

CIVIC, BUSINESS HEADS
SEEK END OF STRIKESFood Shortages Loom as
U. S. Orders Supplies
Shipped to Alaskans

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—(P)—Civic and business groups moved in several directions today to reopen strike-clogged industrial channels for emergency operations while Assistant Secretary of Labor E. F. McGrady pursued his efforts to settle the maritime walkout.

President Roosevelt authorized the government-owned Alaska railroad to operate government and private ships for transportation of necessities to Alaska, where a food shortage was threatened.

The city governments of Oakland and Berkeley announced they would take over the operation of strike-affected milk distributing plants in view of the owners' decision to close them at midnight.

A committee of the San Francisco Industrial Association began preparations to unload 300 carloads of merchandise destined for firms not involved in the local warehousemen's strike but which had become tied up because of the stoppage of work.

About 1,000 union clerical workers threatened to strike at Stockton tomorrow unless employers met their demands for wages increases and a revision of working conditions.

In Los Angeles 100 representatives of business and consumers organizations went on record in favor of an appeal to President Roosevelt for appointment of an arbitration board to settle the maritime strike.

Resides the ship walkout involving 37,000 coast maritime workers, the Pacific seaboard had a dozen or more other strikes in progress, including 900 warehousemen, 6,000 shipyard workers, 450 milk wagon drivers and about 150 textile workers.

Approximately 700 stranded ship passengers awaited relief in Honolulu, with at least a dozen of them reported in financial straits. Dollar Line officials were considering transferring them to two "rescue ships" due there later in the week, and whether to charge them an extra $50 each for the extra effort involved. Strikers have refused to move the ships, on which these passengers had accommodations.

Seeks Agreement.
McGrady, who brought seagoing unions and shipowners together yesterday for the first time since the walkout started October 30, sought an agreement from the organized ships officers and radio operators to meet the employers. They asked them to wait tomorrow for an answer. The conference yesterday was unproductive as far as peace negotiations were concerned.

The assistant labor secretary also conferred with union representatives of the Alaska railroad situation. Seattle strikers said they probably would co-operate with the government in the movement of necessities to the north-west territory, where food prices have been soaring.

Unsuccessful in a move to bring about arbitration of the maritime walkout, the United States conference of mayors in Washington asked extension of the federal railway labor act to embrace all means of transportation in interstate and foreign commerce. They pointed out there had been no interruptions of railroad transportation since the act was put into effect.

The New York strike of rank-and-file seamen failed to stop the United States liner Washington from leaving its pier off an Atlantic crossing but the big ship encountered delay while it anchored later-in the bay for examination of seamen's certificates.

Striking seamen at Houston complained "gangland tactics" were being used to demoralize their pickets. Three pickets said they had been fired on from an automobile.

Persons Already 65 Not Entitled To Social Security Act Benefits

Constitution Bureau at Washington Busily Engaged Answering Flood of Questions Sent in Regarding Workings of New Law.

Stress yesterday was placed on the section of the Social Security Act which stipulates persons already 65 years of age or over are not entitled to benefits under the act, as questions received by The Constitution's Washington Bureau continued to ask that this point be answered.

Other persons sought information as to what provisions have been made for the men and women who are now out of work and are over 65 years of age. These questions are answered below.

The Constitution is maintaining a staff of trained experts to answer questions on the security act that are puzzling its readers. European war is near and that the nations of America may be drawn into its orbit, it can be affirmed that peace in rearing Europe is constantly more uncertain.

In view of this, he said, "the American nations can only organize for their mutual defense, not just to keep the new world out of the possible European war but also to banish similar struggles from our hemisphere."

The need of such an organization, the Brazilian president said, might have led Mr. Roosevelt to suggest inter-American parley, "to serve as an example."

TO VISIT WARM SPRINGS ON RETURN TO COUNTRY

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 18.—(P)—Governor Olin D. Johnston, of South Carolina, said today President Roosevelt expects on his return from South America December 14 to make a trip through South Carolina and Georgia to Warm Springs after disembarking here.

The President's tentative plans call for a train trip from Charleston to Columbia, and then a motor trip to Macon, Ga., via Augusta, Johnston said, before continuing to Warm Springs, where the "Little White House" is located.

SIMPLE WELCOME SEEN FOR ROOSEVELT

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 18.—(P)—Several of the more elaborate ceremonies planned for President Roosevelt's reception here probably will be abandoned at his expressed wish, it was understood tonight.

His desire that the program in his honor be as unostentatious as possible was "communicated to Foreign Minister Carlos Saavedra Lamas by United States Ambassador Alexander Weddell.

The ambassador declined, with thanks, Argentina's offer of the Errazuriz mansion—one of the grandest residences in the Americas—as Mr. Roosevelt's residence during his stay. The United States executive has decided to remain at the United States embassy, Weddell said.

F. D. R. Statement On Unemployment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(P)—President Roosevelt's statement today on unemployment follows:

Re-employment has been increasing rapidly during the last year, and reports from industry are to the effect that further gains in employment can be expected during the coming year.

Unemployment relief has reflected this improvement in employment. From the peak of 5,316,000 unemployed families and single persons in January, 1935, the number declined 28 per cent to August, 1936. Despite this decline a large number of unemployed remain on the WPA and other governmental agencies.

These workers are to a large extent unskilled and a disproportionately large number are older workers—40 years and over. The sharp revival in employment has been among skilled workers and relatively young workers. The unskilled and the older workers have shared in this revival to a much less extent.

In the relief message to congress on March 18, 1936, I asked private business "to extend its operations so as to absorb an increasing number of unemployed men." Many private businesses are responding—but much remains to be done.

CONTINUE AND INCREASE RE-EMPLOYMENT PLAN
Industry should continue and increase its re-employment efforts. To reduce substantially the unemployment relief rolls, industry must hire a larger number of the older workers and the unskilled workers. This problem will, I hope, be recognized by industry. It is widely known that many of the largest industries will not hire workers over 40 years of age. To a large extent this policy is responsible for the relatively large number of older workers on relief. Leaders of business must recognize the consequences of this hiring age policy—it condemns many in this group of workers to permanent unemployment.

It is scarcely necessary to point to the seriousness of this policy to the unemployed. Long continued unemployment for the older workers results sooner or later in unemployability. The non-employment of unskilled workers likewise leads eventually to unemployability—and this means a permanent problem of support. And the burden of support is carried ultimately in large measure by industry itself.

It is to the best interests of industry to recognize its responsibility, not only by substantially increasing employment but by employing those in groups where many are now supported by public funds. Industry can adjust its hiring policies so as to cause the speediest reduction in the real burden of unemployment. This means giving a fair share of the new jobs to the workers over 40 and to expand opportunities for the hiring of unskilled workers.

MUST APPROPRIATE MORE RELIEF FUNDS
In the relief message of March 13, 1936, I stated that "only if industry fails to reduce substantially the number of those now out of work will another appropriation and further plans and policies be necessary." Obviously industry has not yet increased its employment sufficient to permit the government to withdraw its aid to the unemployed. Moreover, the severe drought of this summer required the use of a large sum of money which would otherwise be available for general unemployment relief. As a consequence, congress will be asked to appropriate enough funds to carry the program through the fiscal year 1937.

The relief estimate and plans for the fiscal year 1937 will be made known later. It is as true now as it was last March when I stated: "The ultimate cost of the federal works program will . . . be determined by private enterprise. Federal assistance . . . can be terminated if industry itself removes the underlying conditions." I am glad to note an increasing spirit of mutual helpfulness, and of recognition of the fact that the way to end unemployment relief is to give work.

TIFTON LINEMAN DIES IN MACON HOSPITAL

MACON, Ga., Nov. 18.—(P)—R. R. Edgar, 38, Tifton lineman, died in a hospital here today from burns received yesterday when he came in contact with a 110,000 volt line five miles east of Macon.

The lineman was working on a pole when the current was carried to his body through a stick. Knocked unconscious, Edgar fell about four feet until his safety belt came into action, leaving him dangling 50 feet above the ground until fellow workmen could rescue him.

He was given emergency treatment at Macon and then brought to a hospital here.

Beginning TODAY--

A New Bus Service
For Downtown AtlantaThe Shoppers Special
Fare--Five Cents

Connecting, or passing near every large store, office building, public building, hotel, theater and doctors' building in the downtown section, a new Shoppers Special bus service begins operation TODAY. With a five-cent fare, the new buses will provide cheap, quick and easy transportation for shoppers and others traveling from point to point in Atlanta's now widely scattered business section.

Starting at Ponce de Leon and Peachtree, the buses will operate on Peachtree to Broad to Mitchell to Washington Street. From that point, they will return by way of Washington, Hunter, Whitehall and Peachtree to Ponce de Leon Avenue.

Because this service is intended for shoppers and others having business in the downtown section, the buses will be operated only on week days, not on Sundays and holidays, and only during business hours.

The first bus will leave Washington and Mitchell Streets, northbound, at 9:20 a. m., and the last bus will leave at 4:20 p. m. The first southbound bus will leave Ponce de Leon and Peachtree at 9:40 a. m. and the last bus will leave at 4:40 p. m.

Because of the special fare of five cents, no tickets will be required and no transfers will be issued to or from this line.

Launched as an experiment in the modernization of Atlanta's transportation system, the new service will continue through the Christmas shopping season, and thereafter if justified by its patronage.

GRANGE RECOMMENDS

U. S. CROP INSURANCE

Asks What Rails Propose To Substitute for Long, Short Haul Act.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 18.—(AP) The National Grange recommended federal insurance for farm crops to day and asked the American railroads, in effect, what they proposed to substitute for the "long and short haul clause" of the interstate commerce act.

Representatives of the American Association of Railroads had asked the Grange at its seventieth annual convention here to withdraw opposition to the Pottenger bill, which would repeal the federal regulation prohibiting railroads from charging less for a long haul than a short one, to meet the competition of water carriers.

Louis J. Taber, national master of the Grange, said a resolution adopted by the convention today restated the Grange's position on the long and short haul question, "but says to the railroads 'What have you to offer?'"

"Through all its history of National Grange has opposed monopolistic control of transportation facilities," said the resolution, "and will oppose the repeal of any law or the enactment of legislation which will make possible the return of abuses and practices in which railroads engaged prior to the enactment of the long and short haul clause."

The Grange, representing 800,000 farm members in all parts of the nation, adopted a resolution for establishment of federal crop insurance.

D. B. Anderson, of Moore, S. C., president of the South Carolina Grange, presented the resolution, which said:

"We favor the establishment of a system of crop insurance under the supervision of the federal government which will provide proper protection for the farmer in accordance with his working methods, and that the plan be tried out on a limited scale."

Leaders said the organization would insist that the insurance plan be backed strongly by farmers suffering drouths or floods—he entirely voluntarily on the part of participants.

DENTAL CONSULTANT DIES.
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Dr. John Tomlinson Hanks, of New York, who, as consultant on dental cases to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, investigated dental conditions throughout the United States, died today while riding in a subway train. He was 66.

CARBUNCLE FATAL TO CO-ED.
BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Miss Mildred Goff, 15-year-old student at Bowling Green Business University, died today of blood poisoning resulting from a carbuncle. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Goff, of Jaeger, W. Va.

Madame Schumann-Heink Happy, Though Poor, at Time of Death

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink died comparatively poor, but happy in the knowledge the thousands of dollars she gave away brought joy to others.

Friends recalled today one of the great contraltos' last observations as she looked at the flowers heaped in her bedroom:

"If they would only take the money they spend on this and do some good with it."

In her heyday she earned upwards of $135,000 a year, spending it lavishly on her family and above all on the World War veterans who regarded her as "mother."

Typical of her benefactions was the deed of her $200,000 home, Grossmutter, near San Diego, Cal., to disabled soldiers.

Mme. Schumann-Heink died last night. Three sons and a daughter were at the bedside. The 70-year-old artist was about to be starred in a moving picture, the last phase of a career that covered grand opera, concert singing and vaudeville.

Blood transfusions failed to stem the course of severe chronic anemia. A funeral with full military honors will be conducted for Mme. Schumann-Heink Friday morning, members of the diva's family said tonight.

Services will be directed by the American Legion, Post 43, of Hollywood and by the Hollywood post of the Disabled Veterans of the World War. Father Patrick Keating will deliver the eulogy and Willard Stewart, post chaplain, the prayer.

Following the rites, her body will be taken to San Diego, where she made her home, for interment at Greenwood cemetery.

Today, Walter Schumann, of Chicago, arrived. Mme. Schumann-Heink's sixth child, Mrs. Charlotte Greif-Heink, of Leipzig, Germany, will be the only one not present at the funeral.

Dr. Samuel Alter, her physician and personal friend, said she sang for the last time a little more than two weeks ago, after the second of a series of transfusions.

Messages poured in from all over the world, expressing the grief of all classes of people at the passing of the great singer.

One message, which arrived shortly before Mme. Schumann-Heink passed into a coma yesterday afternoon, was the last thing she heard. It was anonymous and said:

"Just an urchin who heard you sing at Lotta's Fountain years ago sends his love and wants you to get well."

"Bless him," murmured the diva, and sank into a sleep from which she never awoke.

Dr. Alter said the diva had "passed away quietly, and unafraid of death."

His last words to the diva as he left her for a few minutes during the afternoon, were:

"I'll be right back. By tonight you will feel better."

He said she smiled slightly and shook her head. He went out and while he was gone one of her sons read messages from people throughout the world. She had passed into a coma before Dr. Alter returned.

Today a flock of birds sang merrily at the window ledge near the diva's bedroom. A servant explained they were a flock who daily were fed by Mme. Schumann-Heink.

"After she was ill," he said, "the birds still returned, so we have been feeding them. We will still feed them, as the madame would wish."

GEORGIA CAST 255,364 VOTES FOR ROOSEVELT

Governor Compiles Official State Vote for Recent National Election.

President Roosevelt received 255,364 official votes in the November 3 general election in Georgia and Governor Alf M. Landon received 38,942.

The official vote was compiled by Governor Talmadge yesterday. The Prohibition party presidential candidate, Lee D. Colvin, received 663 votes; the Union party candidate, Representative William Lemke, 141, and the Socialist candidate, Norman Thomas, 68.

Governor Talmadge also compiled votes under the law for United States senators and congressmen.

Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., who was unopposed, received 258,468 votes, topping the Roosevelt vote by 3,104.

The results in other congress races were as follows:

First district, Hugh Peterson, Democrat, 25,849; second district, E. B. Cox, Democrat, 21,405; third district, Stephen Pace, Democrat, 25,619; fourth district, Emmett Owen, Democrat, 24,643; fifth district, Robert Ramoak, Democrat, 35,540; Henry A. Alexander, Republican, 4,213; sixth district, Carl Vinson, Democrat, 22,968; seventh district, M. C. Tarter, Democrat, 28,972; L. Mitchell Johnson, Independent, 2,439; eighth district, Braswell Deen, Democrat, 24,695; Ben J. Ford, Republican, 14,550; ninth district, Frank Wheeler, Democrat, 24,353; John M. Johnson, Republican, 7,737; tenth district, Paul Brown, Democrat, 27,147.

BURGLARY SUSPECT
Five Charges Made Against Negro Woman.

A series of recent burglaries in residential sections of Atlanta were charged by police yesterday against a negro woman who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of burglary.

According to police, the suspect is being held in connection with alleged burglaries at 553 and 563 Cooper street, 283 Moreland avenue, 305 Prospect place and 1206 Merin street, from which small amounts of cash and clothing were taken.

The suspect, listed as Minnie Jones, of a Dimmock street address, was taken into custody after Gus Manning, of 567 Cooper street, said he saw her enter two homes.

Police said the woman has served previous sentences for larceny and burglary. They are attempting to find the owner of a woman's purse, bearing initials "A. N.," allegedly found in her possession.

REALTORS OF NATION WARNED AGAINST BOOM

Bostonians Say Gradual Increase in Values Is Much To Be Desired.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The nation's leading realtors, cognizant of a definite upswing in their business, were warned that anything like a boom condition would be a calamity as they opened the 29th annual convention today of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Shortly after President Walter W. Rose, of Orlando, Fla., told the 1,200 delegates that the present year "has been a year of definite upturn in every factor affecting real estate, Parker Webb, Boston, former chairman of the brokers' division, cautioned against a boom.

"Some experts," he said, "have gone so far as to prophesy a boom in real estate. A gradual, healthy increase in real estate values is much to be desired, but anything like a boom condition would certainly be a calamity. General business is better and this improvement will be reflected directly in the increased values of real estate. A better market for commercial properties is already here."

Note from President.
From Stewart McDonald, Federal Housing Administrator, the realtors learned that the next session of congress will be asked to continue title 11 of the FHA, dealing with insurance and mortgages.

At their opening general session the delegates received a note of greetings from President Roosevelt, in which he said:

"... Members of the association joined wholeheartedly in the government's efforts to make home ownership widely available to the American people.

"I am convinced that a community of interests and mutual regard will assure the continuance of the constructive work that has already set the home builders of the country well on the road to a permanent prosperity."

Position Recognized.
"We have too long ignored the importance of housing in the economic structure of the nation. . . . I recognize your position that there is no need for city, state or federal government aid in connection with housing which private capital can provide. But, I feel strongly that it is a part of your responsibility to help us discover ways in which private capital can co-operate with public authorities in improving the housing conditions of the nation as a whole."

R. E. SATTERWHITE DIES AT RESIDENCE
Veteran Telegraph Official Had Lived in Atlanta Many Years.

Robert E. Satterwhite, 63, retired veteran official of the Western Union Telegraph Company, died early yesterday morning at the residence, 808 Edgewood avenue, N. E.

Mr. Satterwhite, a native of Buford, was a long-time resident of this city. Until his retirement several years ago, he had been associated with the telegraph company for 26 years, serving as traffic supervisor and assisting traffic manager.

He was a member of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church.

Surviving are his wife; five daughters, Miss Myrtle Satterwhite, Mrs. C. A. McWilliams, Mrs. G. T. Wells, Mrs. E. J. Maurer and Mrs. J. E. Dunn; four sons, H. W. Satterwhite, of Atlanta; E. W. Satterwhite, of Chicago; Robert E. Satterwhite Jr., of Birmingham, and C. B. Satterwhite, of Jacksonville, and three sisters, Mrs. L. B. Huffaker, Mrs. O. S. Rakestraw and Mrs. H. J. Whitner, of Mobile.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow from the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with the Rev. S. A. Cowan officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

'SIT-DOWN' STRIKE GRIPS FISHER PLANT
Shutdown Is Ordered Later in Day by Chevrolet Management.

A "sit-down" strike of approximately 650 employees of the Fisher Body plant began yesterday. A shutdown of the adjacent Chevrolet plant was called by the management a few hours later.

The Fisher plant employees dropped their work at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning in protest against the company's rule against wearing union buttons while on duty, according to F. C. Peiper, international representative of the United Automobile Workers of America. Several men were laid off for a week when they appeared wearing the buttons of Local No. 34, Peiper claimed.

Company officials ordered the shop closed at 12:45 o'clock, but the workers refused to leave, Peiper said.

D. S. Zimmerman, manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company's assembly plant, announced the plant would close because of inability to secure materials with which to operate. He did not connect the shutdown with the cessation of operation in the Fisher plant.

He declined to estimate how many Chevrolet workers would be affected, but said "we will notify the men when to come back to work."

Chevrolet employees, at a meeting last night of the United Automobile Workers, Local No. 34, elected a committee to meet today with the management in an effort to "iron out its difficulties" in the Chevrolet plant before any action would be taken on the Fisher Body employee strike.

Their demand will be adjustment in wage rates and control in the speed of working plans, it was said.

JOSEPH N. CHAMBERS PASSES AT RESIDENCE
Joseph Nick Chambers, 63, veteran employee of the Withers Foundry & Machine Works, died last night at the residence, 427 Hood street, S. W. He was a native of Atlanta, and a life-long resident. He had been employed at the Withers plant since he was 12 years old, and was its oldest stationary engineer in point of service. He was a Mason.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Joseph S. Chambers; two daughters, Mrs. B. H. Lloyd and Mrs. Mamie Bradley, and three brothers, J. A. D. N. and F. E. Chambers.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon Co.

MAYORS ASK F. D. R. TO CONTINUE RELIEF

City Chiefs Also Request Provisions for Low-Cost Housing Projects.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Reiterating that work rather than a dole is "The American way" to provide relief, the United States Conference of Mayors today asked congress and the president to provide sufficient funds to continue WPA through the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Delegates previously had estimated from $500,000,000 to $800,000,000 would have to be appropriated for this purpose. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, of New York, re-elected president of the conference, said the mayors agreed the money should be voted "early in January," soon after the new congress meets.

In the closing session of their three-day meeting, the mayors also urged

For Safety's sake PAVE THE GAPS WITH Concrete

Why do state highway departments warn the public: "Concrete pavement ends"? Because it is universally accepted that speeds which are reasonable and safe on concrete become dangerous on other surfaces.

To save lives, to prevent accidents . . . demand concrete all the way. True and even, it has no high crown—is usable to its full width. Brakes are at their best on its gritty non-skid surface. Its light gray color and sharply defined edges give high visibility at night. Any car is a better car on concrete. And concrete saves money for motorists and for taxpayers. Insist on concrete for your roads.

At your journey's end, you feel refreshed and ready for your task ahead. And the railroad fare for the trip is so reasonable, too,—1½ cents in coaches, 2 to 3 cents per mile in Pullman cars.

It takes a lot of money to keep service going on the L & N—$40,000,000 per year for wages; $12,000,000 for materials and supplies; $4,500,000 for taxes; $4,000,000 for fuel.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST END MEETING TODAY

Annual Youth Banquet To Feature Closing Sessions of Church Convention.

Closing sessions of the annual convention of the Disciples of Christ of Georgia meeting at the First Christian church here will be held today. The morning program centers on the work of benevolence, to be presented by A. R. Mayfield, chairman of the board of the Southern Christian Home of Atlanta, and the Rev. A. B. Robertson, chairman of the board of the Florida Christian Home for the Aged at Jacksonville.

A discussion of the work of religious education will be held following the opening meeting. The afternoon program will be given over to transaction of business and for conferences on brotherhood agencies and united promotion.

Open house for delegates will be held at the Southern Christian Home for Children, on Cleburne avenue, from 4 to 5 o'clock, with the annual youth's banquet scheduled at 6 o'clock at the First Christian church, Waldo Sowell, of Emory University, will act as toastmaster and the Rev. Howard Matheny, pastor of the First Christian church, Waycross, will be the principal speaker.

Closing addresses will be made to-night by the Rev. Bruce Noy, state secretary, and the Rev. Charles B. Holder, of Griffin, who will speak on "Improving Present Moral Attitudes." Dr. H. P. Gamboe, of India, told of his years of experience in evangelistic work there at the session last night, followed by the principal address by Dr. S. J. Corey, president of the United Christian Missionary Society. He has traveled throughout missionary fields of the world and told of observations and conditions, issuing a challenge to the church of America to meet the issues of the present hour.

At the women's session held yesterday, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. F. A. Beach; vice president and recorder, Mrs. R. H. O'Kelley; second vice president, Mrs. Hoke Dickinson; general secretary, Mrs. L. O. Turner; treasurer, Mrs. L. E. Anthony; district secretaries, Mrs. W. J. Slater, Savannah; Mrs. D. M. Joiner, Watkinsonville; Mrs. Harper Tucker, Central; Mrs. W. T. Baird, Griffin; Mrs. Chester Martin, Atlanta; Mrs. Harry M. Wilson, Southern, and general secretary, Mrs. L. O. Turner.

MOTORCYCLE POLICE DON'T LIKE EAR-FLAPS

Members of Atlanta's police motorcycle squad would rather have winter winds nip their ears than be unable to hear properly.

At least, that was the conclusion drawn yesterday when it was revealed the 26 men comprising the squad voted three to one against adopting leather helmets with ear flaps as part of their winter uniform.

Most of those who voted against the ear flaps claimed that, while comfortable on cold days, the flaps impair hearing.

WELL GROOMED MEN WELCOME NEW LIGHTERS AND ELECTRIC SHAVERS

PERSONAL EQUIPMENT KEEPS PACE WITH MODERN LIVING

Cigarette lighters that have no sparking wheels or flame are one of the new gadgets that add to the joy of living. Smaller than a book of matches, they light instantly with the first puff.

These lektro-lighters refill only once in three months! Prices range from $5 up and the range of models includes combination cigarette cases and lighters together with midge models, costing only $1, especially for milady's handbag. They are especially fine for women because they release no stain from the tobacco and create no odor. If the wind is blowing a gale, that's all right, too, because wind, rain and snow have no effect upon them.

No less interesting is a new electric shaver with a highly polished round head that glides smoothly over the face, taking whiskers from the tenderest face without pulling, scratching or other irritation. The shaver costs $15 and is a money saver. There are no blades, brushes, creams, lathers or anything else to buy. And, the shaver lasts for years and years.

NEXT YEAR'S COTTON CROP

With the 1936 cotton crop practically all harvested, the major portion of it gained and in the hands of dealers, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace warned an assembly of farmers in Memphis this week that it was time to begin planning in connection with next year's crop.

This year's crop registered a large increase over that of last year, and the final ginning report may disclose an increase of close to 2,000,000 bales. Only a big increase in domestic consumption and a moderate increase in exports have avoided another addition to the already large surplus, and a disastrous dip in the sale price while cotton was in progress from fields of the south to the warehouses of factors.

Arriving in Memphis from a trip through Texas and Arkansas, Secretary Wallace reports that farmers in those states were more interested in whether or not the cotton crop will be under control regulations than they were in the correlated subject of crop insurance.

The federal government can do little toward crop insurance unless there is some method of crop control, and before formulating plans which are to be promulgated December 15 the secretary is securing opinions and promises of co-operation from producers in the various large cotton-raising states.

Considering the disastrous surplus of 13,000,000 bales four years ago, which caused cotton to drop to 5 cents a pound, it is unthinkable that producers will run the risk of another such experience. It has been definitely demonstrated that a small crop, bringing a high price, is more profitable than a large crop with low prices, and with the great advance in diversified farming and stock raising in the old cotton section, southeastern producers will be satisfied with such a program. Unquestionably the size of next year's crop will rest largely upon the decision of growers in the delta region and the states beyond the Mississippi.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK

"Life is too short," said Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, beloved operatic and concert singer, when, soon after passing her 75th birthday, she appeared to sense that the time was not far distant when the curtain would fall on her earthly career.

That final curtain came Monday and the world will agree that life is too short and the hand of Time too heavy in the passing of such a notable character.

The great contralto, who was known as "Mother" to the United States World War veterans because of her interest in their welfare, maintained her characteristic cheerfulness up to the time she became unconscious, manifesting a bravery of spirit that was typical of her career.

As she gradually ascended the stairway to world-wide fame, every step was beset with vicissitudes that would have appalled a weaker character. She was a star in her own right, backed by 20 years' experience, when she made her first appearance in America in 1898, and America took her to its heart—loving her for her great artistry and the kindly, generous nature that scattered sunshine and happiness among all with whom she came in contact.

Sharing equal honor with the great Caruso as an artist, fame and plaudits of the world did not spoil her beautiful character and love for humanity. On an occasion years ago when she had appeared with the Metropolitan Opera Company in Atlanta, she had gone to the

After Palestine, Iraq.
The coup d'état in Baghdad by General Sidki Bekir Pasha is as much directed against Great Britain as was the recent Arab general strike in Palestine. In fact, it is directly connected with the Palestinian upheaval. Nuri Pasha, the Iraq foreign minister, had offered his services as mediator between the Arabs in Palestine and the British authorities, and it was on this initiative that the general strike was terminated, awaiting the arrival of a British royal commission of inquiry.

General Sidki was dissatisfied with this move of the foreign minister. He figured that the Palestinian Arabs should have continued the fight against British rule and to the bitter end. To show his dissatisfaction he had a squadron of airplanes appear over Baghdad to drop bombs in which the cabinet minister was asked to resign. The king was asked to name another prime minister. After the leaflets had been scattered the squadron dropped some bombs by way of warning. Immediately, the cabinet resigned and the ministers fled the country, amongst them Nuri Pasha, the man who had carried out the negotiations in Palestine.

There the matter rests for the moment. But Sidki Bekir Pasha is now virtually in control of Iraq and he intends to give the country another revolution. He would be an ally of Turkey in the event of a Turkish invasion of Great Britain.

If we consider that the pipe line from the Mosul oil fields runs for the greater part over Iraq territory and that the terminus of the oil line is Haifa, near Mount Carmel, in the Holy Land, and that Great Britain is transforming this city into the mightiest war base in the Mediterranean, in order to have a solid point d'appui for the defense of the Suez canal, we may realize that England is deeply interested in what takes place in Iraq.

Letting that country go its own way or become the source of more friction and trouble in a neighborhood, which is of vital interest to the British empire.

It is a curious coincidence that the palace-revolution in Baghdad against the British influence should have broken out just two days before General Mussolini's speech in Milan, wherein the Duke called upon England to come to a settlement with Italy regarding spheres of influence in the Mediterranean.

The previous address of the Duke pointed to the chaos and disorder in Arabic countries under British influence, while the anti-British agitation by the League of Nations in the Arabic during the Abyssinian affair is a matter of record.

Sidki Bekir Pasha is not an unknown figure to the world. He was the officer who ordered the massacre of the Iraqi army which massacred the Assyrian Christians two years ago, a ghastly business which shocked the civilized world and which decided the League of Nations to withdraw the remnants of the Assyrian people from Iraq. The general is also the animator of an anti-Jewish movement in his country.

The Jews of Baghdad are, on the whole, not Zionists. That is to say they have nothing to do with the colonization work in Palestine. They have of course a religious bias against the Holy Land. But Sidki Pasha argues this way: The Jews in Palestine are the proteges of England. They are building up a Jewish state in the midst of our Arab country. The state is to be England's basis of control for the Arabic countries. Perhaps the Jews of Iraq, poor peddlers and merchants and artisans for the most part, have nothing to do with this. Perhaps they are not involved in this English plot. But maybe they are. To start with, we are going to oppress them. And if they dare to contain to their brethren abroad, we will see what measures we shall take.

Having regard to Sidki's awful record in exterminating the oldest Christian community, that of the Assyrians, there is good reason to worry about his intentions with regard to the Jewish population of Iraq.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Ordinarily we think of coughing as concerned with the breathing organs, the lungs, bronchial tubes, windpipe, larynx. In some cases coughing is of importance so far as the heart is concerned. A chronic cough may be a sign of a heart disease or a pulmonary disease, especially when this membrane is inflamed (pleurisy or pleur-pneumonia or other diseases known as lobar pneumonia and lung fever).

We should regard coughing in broader light. Probably a large share of cases in which coughing is the complaint which brings the patient to a physician or physician to patient are not genuine. That is, the cough, which seems to come from the chest, is actually due to some cause entirely apart from larynx, windpipe, bronchi, lungs or pleura. Indeed, spurious "bronchial" trouble or "chest" trouble leads a great many dabbles in self-medication to the use of various remedies.

One of my first patients, during his life, was a young man with an elephant cough. He seemed to take delight in coughing in the first thing in the morning. He reported that his cough was a little better. Had he, in a state. One morning he reported a curious thing he had noticed. Every time he coughed, or nearly every time, he could not hear for some time after the bath. I was into his ear in a brace of shakers. Sure enough, an accumulation of hard, dried mucus was in the ear, which when wet and obstructed hearing. In removing this I noticed that whenever anything touched the rear wall of the ear canal the patient put his finger to his nose. The skin there is supplied with a branch of the great pneumogastric or vagus nerve which is the main sensory nerve of lungs, bronchi, larynx and pharynx. The elephant cough was a pure reflex phenomenon, produced by the irritation of the back of the ear canal by the plug of hardened mucus. When we cleaned that out, the cough immediately ceased and never returned. Was my face purple?

Young children are commonly dosed with cough medicine when their coughing spells, which occur chiefly immediately after the children go to bed at night, are due wholly to comparatively trifling irritations in the nasal passages and not at all to anything wrong in the chest. In the early stage of acute rhinitis or coryza in a young child a harsh, brassy cough is a symptom which gives parents considerable anxiety; this may be much relieved by dropping in each nostril as the child lies on back a drop of conDol—the same vitamin D concentrate which is generally used to prevent rickets in infants.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Arsenic Poisoning.

Please tell me if it is necessary to soak a fresh leafy vegetable to be eaten raw in salt water overnight to prevent arsenic poisoning? (H. C. C.)

Answer—If the vegetable has been treated with an insecticide spray containing arsenic, it should be thoroughly washed in several changes of water to remove as much arsenic as possible. It does not think salt water is as good for the purpose as plain water.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS FAIR ENOUGH

BY PAUL MALLON.

VACATIONS WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—President Roosevelt declined to be drawn into an official explanation of his other day by saying it speaks for itself.

You may not have heard what it says. Its voice does not appear to have been either loud or certain. But, as amplified by an official magna vox backstage, its proper evaluation may be recorded substantially as follows:

The President is going to Buenos Aires to attract world attention to a proposed Pan-American neutrality program among the nations which are not at all likely to go to war. He is going fishing for a month, not only to take a vacation himself, but to give the country one. He has left many a hot problem (NRA, AAA, etc.) behind him on the White House window sill to cool.

FIRST STEP A diplomatic spokesman for the New Deal has been advising observers privately to watch the Pan-American conference for its effect on the League of Nations neutrality moves. What he means is that the administration hopes Europe will take up and subscribe to the American neutrality pact expected to be adopted in B. A.—but, frankly, it only "hopes."

United States diplomats have received no practical encouragement for peace from any of the nations which are likely to go to war. They will find it easy enough to get the smaller Latin-American nations into a neutrality pact, but getting Japan, Germany, Russia et al into any effective agreement will be something entirely different.

All that can be done is for officials to make peace news, talk it up, try to create a new international psychology, and hope something will break. At most, it is a step in the right direction, and, at least, a welcome relief from war talk.

HOLD-OVERS A month ago it was almost certain that Chairman Landis, of the Securities and Exchange Commission, would shortly leave the New Deal to become head of the Harvard Law School. Now it is not so certain. The White House is said to have brought some pressure to require him to remain.

The SEC administration of Landis, one of the original brain trusters, has been successful from the inside and out. The soundest stock marketeers and New Dealers regard him highly. He has followed the line hewn by the original chairman, Joe Kennedy. The New Deal has too few executive administrators like Landis, Chairman Crowley, of FDIC; Jesse Jones, of RFC; Chairman Eccles, of the FRB, and intends to keep all it can.

MANDATES Those who consider the election a mandate for everything advocated by everyone in the Roosevelt camp should make a study of the variety of reasons why people voted for the President.

They could start off with the unannounced explanation of a prominent Democratic leader, who says: "I really did not like to see the administration being so antagonistic to business. After all, the businessman is the only one who will take men off the relief rolls, and inasmuch as this is an object of the administration, it should co-operate with business more. There ought to be a friendly feeling between business and the government, and I thought I could do more to bring it about by working within the New Deal than outside it."

Against this, the reasoning of some of the Socialists and Communists who voted Democratic could be placed.

The simplest explanation, however, may be overlooked. The greater number probably just preferred Roosevelt to Landis, without being swayed by any particular issues.

TRADE BUILD-UP The State Department has started a series of elegant handouts analyzing the reciprocal trade agreements. The first one, on the Canadian treaty, was published the other day. It covers 35 pages.

The purpose behind the publicity program is to build up interest and knowledge in preparation for further action when Secretary Hull returns from Buenos Aires. One or two minor agreements (including Chile) are now hanging fire, but bigger things are expected later.

DISTINCTION Letters received at the White House are generally referred to one of the government departments for response. That is, if a correspondent inquires about relief, his letter is initiated "WPA" and sent to that agency. The same method is in use with TVA, AAA, FCA and all the others—except RA. For some reason, letters referred to the Resettlement Administration have not been marked "RA," but instead have been slugged "Dr. Tugwell."

If a Heifer Is Wild Enough To Jump Fences, She Must Have a Hobbler

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Partisans with axes to grind may split hairs to uphold or deny the right of the supreme court to "veto" acts of congress that violate the constitution, but the facts of the matter are so clear and simple that any layman without bias can understand them.

For a government by the people, expediency and good sense require three branches; an executive to oversee and manage representatives close to the people to make laws, and a judiciary to interpret and apply the law.

The constitution establishes these three branches of government and gives them their authority. It is the supreme law—the charter from the people that sets up a government and limits its powers.

In no place does the constitution expressly authorize the supreme court to "veto" acts of congress that violate the constitution.

That power was assumed by John Marshall, the first chief justice—to the dismay and indignation of Jefferson.

We need not respect Marshall as a man, for he was a rabid politician on the bench, brazenly using his powers as a party weapon—overruling his own rulings to acquit a Federalist or prove a Jeffersonian guilty.

But his assertion of the court's power to annul acts of congress that violate the constitution was logical and manifestly right.

The constitution created congress. It follows, then, that congress cannot be above the constitution. The servant is not greater than his lord.

Congress is empowered to make laws, but is sworn to uphold the constitution—the supreme law to which all others must conform.

Obviously, there must be some authority empowered to review the laws of congress and see that they do conform to the constitution. Otherwise, being free of all restraints, a partisan congress could disregard the constitution altogether. It could empower a president to hold office for life. Dominated by zealous dyes, it could use the military forces to search every home and jail every citizen caught in possession of a bottle of beer. Its powers would be limited only by its conscience—which few citizens would care to trust.

If the constitution is the supreme law, any act that violates it is clearly unlawful. And if some authority must be empowered to prevent unlawful acts by congress, who should it be if not the highest judicial authority established to interpret the law?

The supreme court has power to uphold our laws. If it is in duty bound to uphold lesser laws, it is less obligated to uphold the supreme law on which all others depend?

No human institution is perfect. But judges chosen for their learning and high repute, and holding office for life, can be trusted with power as other officials cannot. Their opinions are not influenced by need of votes.

It is not wise to criticize them too much. The prestige of their court makes conservative opinions acceptable now; it will be needed to make liberal opinions acceptable when the personnel of the court changes. If the constitution blocks progress, change it. If the referee enforces rules that displease you, change the rules—not the referee.

Pays Tribute to Clark Howell

The papers of late Saturday and Sunday had sorrowful news to carry to those who knew Clark Howell, for he was much beloved south and north, and west. He was first of all Clark Howell, of Atlanta and of The Atlanta Constitution, and Clark Howell, of Georgia, but such was his influence in national and world affairs that he came into a wider fame as Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution. His personality drew thousands into friendship with him; and his fearless service as a publisher and editor added distinction to the journalistic profession of America.

In the splendid tributes there is a note of affection for the man as a friend. Though the days and years as they passed continued to regret the going of one who had so competent and prominent a part in keeping day by day the record of the doings of the neighborhood, the nation and the world, there will emerge from the personal memories of the "journalists" the impersonal and permanent "journalism" of his exceptional contribution to his city, his state and his country.

"A FAMED SOUTHERN EDITOR" (From The Philadelphia Inquirer.)

While Clark Howell was a political figure for most of his life, it was as an editor of high standards and a publisher of unusual business acumen that he will be longest remembered. His death at 73 in Atlanta, where his famous newspaper, The Atlanta Constitution, is one of the nation's journalistic bulwarks, is sincerely mourned among his professional colleagues everywhere because of his long identification with the best publishing policies.

As a director of the Associated Press for 36 years and a Democratic national committeeman for 28 years, Clark Howell represented stability and stature. Those who disagreed with his political tenets ever credited him with sincerity and lofty idealism. Journalism has lost an outstanding figure, and the south has lost a vital force.

REMEMBERED AS A FRIEND (From The Elberton Star.)

The year 1936 has seen many of the country's outstanding men pass into the next life. After time we have been called on to mourn the death of one whom it seemed the country could ill afford to lose. The death of Honorable Clark Howell, Sr., editor of The Atlanta Constitution, and national figure, brought home to Georgia the meaning and effect of this passing of our great men.

Mr. Howell was a statesman and an unquestioned leader in Georgia, and will be so remembered. But he will be remembered more as a friend. Perhaps no one in Georgia ever had more friends in all classes, because he was friendly. The public never knew of many of his acts of friendship, quiet acts which he largely accounts for the power he had.

GREAT LOSS TO GEORGIA (From The Pelham Journal.)

Clark Howell completes his assignment, writes a 30-year-old newspaper, after more than a century of service to his newspaper, his city, his state and a great nation. He was a great editor and a great man and was held in regard throughout the nation. He was the editor of The Atlanta Constitution. In his Georgia, he has sustained a great loss.

"ANOTHER LEADER RESTS" (From The Tampa Tribune.)

One of the last and best of the nation's great individual editors passes with the death of Clark Howell, Sr., president and directing genius of The Atlanta Constitution.

Clark Howell's life has been largely the life and history of southern journalism for nearly a half-century. His conduct of the editorial affairs of The Constitution has been attended by a record of creditable achievements, including Pulitzer prize. Prominent in politics, he disdained the seat of the "spoils of office," never accepted a salary public post. Yet he was a natural leader of his people, a party and his profession, a national figure, exercising an influence that held true to the noblest traditions of the press, and, at the same time, exemplified the best principles of clean journalism.

The names of Grady and Howell will be forever identified with The Constitution, with Georgia, with American journalism.

UNDERSTOOD BOTH NORTH AND SOUTH. (From The Worcester Telegram.)

In the death of Clark Howell the south and the Democratic party and the nation have lost a leader of rare ability and integrity.

Mr. Howell was born in the midst of the Civil War. His mother was a refugee from the north. Sherman's army was marching to the sea. Educated in the south, he received newspaper training in the north before starting his career on The Atlanta Constitution. This was a rare combination, unusual degree, both the south and the north. He had a remarkable grasp of national problems, and his long life was crowded with public service and useful activity until the end.

NOTABLE FIGURE (From The New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

With the death of Clark Howell, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, passes a veteran editor who long had been a notable figure in national affairs. His death marks the passing of a prominent figure in the Democratic party.

Personal and journalistic standards were high in Clark Howell, and his paper held a position of great respect and esteem.

DISTINGUISHED CAREER (From The Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald.)

The death of Clark Howell, editor of The Atlanta Constitution, in Atlanta yesterday, closed a distinguished career.

A great believer in the south and in the future of the south, he was ceaselessly for new industries, improved agriculture, modern highways and better schools. His career was closely identified with the growth of his state and city.

TOWER OF STRENGTH (From The West Palm Beach Post.)

The passing of Clark Howell, venerable editor of The Atlanta Constitution, marks perhaps the most notable loss to southern journalism since the day that the beloved Henry Watterson went into lasting slumber.

The Constitution was a Howell product. Evan P. Howell, the father, having given to it a character whose brilliancy was not allowed to fade under the guidance of the son. For long years The Constitution was a noted newspaper, the product of noted men, although it had been under the supervision of Clark Howell since 1880, longer than that of any other newspaper in the south. It became a tower of strength in the south, the newspaper Bible for most of its readers.

Passing at the age of 73, he had lived long and well, for he had lived wisely and usefully.

First Revolt. American colonists revolted against British authority for the first time on November 17, 1744, and successfully. For long years, the British knew of the royal navy, impressed Bostonians into service in its squadrons. Rioters seized several officers of his command as hostages, made Governor Shirley a prisoner, and forced release of the shanghaied sailors.

In the death of Honorable Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, Atlanta, Georgia, and the nation have suffered a great loss.

Mr. Howell did not seek or crave personal promotion, political or otherwise, but he did strive to serve the public and the best interest of his city, state and country.

PERKINS URGES PLANTS SURVEY JOBS FOR IDLE

Plan To Reveal Where Old
Workers, Unskilled Could Be Used.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A plan to aid older workers and unskilled labor in getting a "fair share" of new industrial jobs was advanced today by Labor Department officials after President Roosevelt had appealed to employers to "adjust" their hiring policies so as to include these groups.

The scheme, said to have originated with Secretary Perkins, proposed an effort to have larger industries agree to survey their plants, list all jobs suitable for older and unskilled workers, and then hire from those groups.

President Roosevelt's appeal, issued through the White House here, deplored what he termed the policy of many big firms in declining to hire men over 40. He said this was making for a class of "permanently unemployed," which would have to be supported by the government.

"It is scarcely necessary to point to the seriousness of this policy to the unemployed," he said, "and the continued unemployment for the older workers result sooner or later in unemployment." The nonemployment of unskilled workers likewise eventually leads to unemployment—and this means a permanent problem of support. And the burden of support is carried ultimately in large measure by industry itself.

"It is to the best interests of industry to recognize its responsibility, not only by substantially increasing employment but by employing those in groups where many are now supported by public funds. Industry can adjust its hiring policies so as to cause the speediest reduction in the real social burden of unemployment. This means giving a fair share of the jobs to the workers over 40 and to expand opportunities for the hiring of unskilled labor."

DEMANDS OF WORKERS REJECTED BY BENDIX

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Vincent Bendix, president of the international aircraft, motor and marine interests bearing his name, declared tonight he would never agree to union demands for a closed shop in plants of the Bendix Aviation Corporation and its subsidiaries here.

His statement was made at a press conference as at least 500 employees prepared to spend a second night within walls of the closed factories in an attempt to force the question of unionization to a head.

"We will never agree to complete unionization of this plant," Bendix told newsmen. "We cannot operate as a closed shop. It is economically impossible."

He asserted union demands for 100 per cent organization of his employees under the wing of federal union No. 9 of the United Automobile Workers of America were "illegal," and he protested there was nothing in statutes or regulations of the National Labor Relations Board to justify them.

DYESS COLONY, Ark., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A field survey by the Department of Agriculture's high command brought today from Secretary Wallace an expression of keen interest in what was being done to improve health in this co-operative colony's hospital and a declaration from Dr. Will W. Alexander, slated to become the nation's new resettlement administrator, that supervision was the prime need of the southern tenant farmer.

Swinging through east Arkansas' shantytown belt with Rexford, Guy Fugwell, who disclosed today his resignation as undersecretary of agriculture and resettlement administrator, the party saw tenant farms at first hand, talked for several hours with the former relief roll clients of Dyess Colony, and inspected the colony's various co-operative units.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A group of Bibb county farmers who discussed the 1936 soil conservation program here, today advocated two changes.

They suggested payment by the government of benefits to all farmers who improve their cotton crops and other farm products during the year, and discontinuance of the payment of $1 per acre to all farmers who turn under sodden grass, sorghum, or millet for soil enrichment and increase of the amount paid to farmers for turning under cowpeas.

All other main items in the 1936 program were voted to be retained by the farmers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Fanned by a stiff wind, a forest fire was burning tonight in a densely wooded section between Clinton and Piscataway, Md., about 13 miles from Washington.

Only 3 Temperature Belts, Not 8, Exist in Georgia, Says Mindling

Weatherman Denies Long Credited Claim, Shows Mean
Range of Mercury in State Is Only From 57 at Clayton to 68 on Coast.

Mother Nature at last has been avenged.

It seems she has been unduly accused of blessing the state of Georgia with more than her share of climates. Even such notable reference works as the Americana, Britannica, International Reference Work and others have given Georgia credit for having eight of the nine climate belts into which the United States has been divided.

But, no longer does Mother Nature have to suffer unjust censure. George M. Mindling, climatological section director for Georgia, has come to her rescue and disproved all the fantastic claims about Georgia's wonderful climates—one to suit any individual's whim.

Mr. Mindling claims Georgia has only three climatic belts within its boundaries.

Division of Belts.

According to the Weather Bureau assignment based on mean annual temperature, five degrees are given to each belt, as follows: No. 1, from 35 to 40 degrees; No. 2, from 40 to 45 degrees and so on up to No. 9, 75 to 80 degrees. The claim made by Georgians and substantiated by the reference books, was that the state had mean annual temperatures ranging from 40 degrees over some of the mountain tops to 70 degrees in Blackshear thus bringing eight belts into the state.

But, Mr. Mindling says no. And figures, supplied for the gathering by Mother Nature, bear him out in his contention. According to these records there are only three climatic belts in the domain of the south's Empire State. Records show the annual range in temperatures in Georgia is from 57 degrees at Clayton, over 2,000 feet above sea level, in the coolest section to about 68 degrees at Brunswick and other sections in the warmest belts.

Coldest Mean Temperatures.

The fantastic claim that Georgia's highest mountain tops are as cold as the Adirondacks in northern New York, when in actuality the coldest mean temperature over the Georgia peaks over a long period of years is only slightly under 55 degrees, the director said.

"Investigation showed this extravagant claim as to Georgia's climate had found its way into leading encyclopedias and reference books from sets of 10 volumes or less to the Britannica, and that it had gone unchallenged for more than 30 years. I traced it back to one Joseph T. Derry, who, in 1878, published a small book on the history and resources of Georgia, but in that book the remarks on the climate were directed chiefly toward showing that the state has a healthful climate. This book did not claim eight-ninths of all the varieties of climate in the United States prevailed in Georgia."

Publication of Claim.

Mindling said Derry, however, became state historian and statistician in the Department of Agriculture about 1900 and shortly thereafter a pamphlet was published in which the claim was made. According to the weatherman, this publication continued to make the claim until the administration of Talmadge.

"When Mount Mitchell, the highest point east of the Mississippi, does not have a low mean temperature as low as 40 degrees, how can we expect to find such climate existing in the 2,000-foot altitudes of Georgia?" Mindling continued.

PASTOR SAYS BAPTISTS FACE RESPONSIBILITY

Dr. Callaway States Denomination Leads All Others in Membership.

By RICHARD McMURRAY.
SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Dr. F. Callaway charged tonight the return of legalized liquor to Georgia would "ever be a Baptist sin."

The pastor of the Georgia Baptist convention addressed the denomination on "Georgia for Christ."

"If Georgia is 'of for Christ' tonight the responsibility rests more largely upon the Baptist people of Georgia than upon all other denominations," he said.

He explained there were more Baptists than members of all other congregations combined.

"Any industrial slavery—whether it is low wages that drive men to steal, or women to sweatshops, or children to the mills—is eminently a Baptist problem," he asserted.

"Read houses are a Baptist disgrace," he charged.

"Slot machines ply a nefarious trade in this state only because of Baptist indifference."

The desecration and commercialization of the Lord's day, such as Sunday movies and Sunday baseball, is due to Baptist unconcern.

"Contempt of law—and the increase in crime in Georgia are a commentary on Baptist consecration."

The Savannah pastor said Baptist churches faced a challenge in "the fact that 54 per cent of the population belongs to no church."

The reason Georgia is not for Christ tonight is because the churches of Georgia are not sufficiently for Christ," he said.

He said the churches had allowed the achievements of the past to "fall into a sleepy state of self-satisfaction."

He charged the trouble was caused by "the glamour of large numbers that inflates our Baptist pride, our love of size rather than that for souls, the deadly indifference in the churches, and the fact that churches have lost much of their passion for souls."

The Rev. J. Clyde Turner, of Greenville, N. C., spoke on "Winning the Lost to Christ."

He urged greater zeal by pastors in promoting the cause of the church.

Dr. J. E. Dillard, director of promotion of the executive committee of the Southern Baptist convention, explained implications of the co-operative program.

His address came as a report of the state promotion committee which was adopted.

Bishop Warren, A. Candler, of Atlanta, head of North Georgia Methodist, told the convention "our Christian colleges are here to stay."

He praised work of Mercer, Shorter, Besse Tift, Norman Junior and Brewster Parker colleges of the Baptists.

"You've had great men and preachers and great saints from Mercer and your other schools," he said.

"Christian colleges fill a definite need in our civilization."

Danger in South.

"Religion has frequently died out in the great schools of the north and the south might happen here in the south if we aren't careful."

Dr. Aquila Chamblee, convention president, disclosed Columbus Roberts, commissioner-elect of agriculture, had given $25,000 recently to Mercer.

Roberts, chairman of the holding commission, reported improvement in the financial status of the $700,000 invested endowment funds of the schools.

The convention closes tomorrow morning.

Lloyd George and Grace Moore To Attend Atlanta Baptist Session

Distinguished English Statesman and Noted Opera Singer Accept Invitations To Be Present at World Alliance in 1939, Dr. Newton Announces in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Two important international characters had already accepted invitations to take part in the meeting of the World Baptist Alliance in 1939 in Atlanta, David Lloyd George, of England, and Grace Moore, the Metropolitan opera singer, was announced here by Rev. Louie D. Newton, D. D., pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist Church of Atlanta.

Dr. Newton is a member of the executive committee of the Alliance and chairman of the arrangement committee for the meeting in Atlanta two and a half years hence.

The meeting will take place in July and is expected to attract 15,000 visitors to Atlanta from all over the world.

The famous British statesman had replied stating his pleasure to accept the invitation, Dr. Newton stated.

Grace Moore, who was "discovered" while she was in the choir of the Jericho, Tenn., Baptist church, said there was nothing she would sooner do for the Baptists because of the way they helped her on the road to fame, and cheerfully accepted the invitation to work at the convention.

Dr. Newton made announcement of these arrangements at the Bull Street Baptist church during a session of the Georgia Baptist convention.

Dr. Newton bore the invitation from Atlanta to the last World Alliance meeting in Berlin in 1934. Atlanta committee for the meeting in Atlanta was selected over bids from Buenos Aires, Shanghai, London, and Johannesburg.

The Alliance meets every five years and previous meetings have been held at London, Philadelphia, Stockholm, Toronto and Berlin.

Dr. Newton stated the purpose of the convention was to incorporate the memory of the "Sage of Hockory Hill."

The corporation, which will neither have capital stock nor be for pecuniary gain, is the outgrowth of a movement to purchase the home of the late Senator Watson for the purpose of converting it into a national shrine to "the father of rural life delivery."

The decision to make the purchase was made at the annual session of the Rural Letter Carriers of the Tenth District which was held here last Memorial Day.

An annual banquet was held in Washington, Ga., Armistice Day and it was learned then that the corporation would be necessary.

Watson, while serving as a member of congress from the Tenth Georgia district is credited with having introduced the first bill in that body providing for rural delivery of mail in the United States.

Dr. Harold said the site had been purchased by the National Society for Georgia Archaeology for eventual donation to either the United States or the University of Georgia.

Work going on at Columbus and other spots in the state is showing extremely interesting finds, the archaeologist reported.

"No one knows where the earliest man settled in Georgia. If I had to guess, my guess would be in the caves of north Georgia—but I might be entirely wrong and it might be in the hills of south Georgia."

Of Kolomoki he gave this partial description: "This site is a virgin site and in all probability is eventually to prove one of the richest sites in the United States."

Study of Early Georgia Settlers Greatly Advanced, Says Harrold

Combined States of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A man with praise for the depression—only because it enabled Georgia archaeologists to progress in their search for the state's first prehistoric settlers—appeared tonight.

He was Dr. C. C. Harrold, of Macon, president of the Society for Georgia Archaeology, who told the University of Georgia Science Club "the recent depression has advanced the study of primitive man in Georgia many, many years."

He said this was because of the understanding co-operation of Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state WPA administrator, in aiding the exploration during the past three years through the WPA, then the WPA.

The intensive study and exploration gave employment to "literally hundreds of men who were in the depths of despair," Dr. Harrold said.

"Native Georgians have no conception as to the richness the study of Georgia archaeology affords," he commented.

He quoted Dr. M. W. Stirling, chief of the Bureau of Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, as saying Bibb (Macon) county in Georgia alone "had more sites of prehistoric interest than the entire combined States of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey."

He listed the "key" prehistoric sites in Georgia as including the Old Okefenokee near Macon, the stone effigy mound near Eatonton, a site known as Kolomoki near the Chattahoochee river in Early county, and Etowah near Cartersville.

Of Kolomoki he gave this partial description: "This site is a virgin site and in all probability is eventually to prove one of the richest sites in the United States."

Dr. Harold said the site had been purchased by the National Society for Georgia Archaeology for eventual donation to either the United States or the University of Georgia.

AID TO MERCHANTS PLEDGED BY RIVERS

Chichester Re-elected President of Better Business Group at Macon.

MACON, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Declaring that "the people of Georgia are entitled to the business of Georgia" and that the drain of profits from the state by foreign corporations is preventing progress and development of home resources, Governor-elect E. D. Rivers today pledged his support to independent merchants in their efforts to obtain chain store legislation.

Mr. Rivers' address was the principal item on the program of the Georgia Better Business Association which held its first annual convention here today. He was heard by approximately 400 persons.

H. L. Chichester, Macon druggist, was re-elected president without opposition; Henry T. Conner, was chosen treasurer, succeeding Louis B. Wilson, Macon grocer; Arthur L. Brooke was named by the board of directors for another term as executive secretary.

A member of the board of directors was named from each congressional district. L. L. Tolson, of Vidalia, was chosen in the first as successor to Frank Sloat, of Savannah; Mr. Scott was re-elected for the second; Chester Parker, of Fitzgerald, was named to succeed C. C. Outers, of Columbus, in the third; A. H. Harvey, of Thomasville, was re-elected in the fourth; Gabe Cohen, of Atlanta, was re-elected in the fifth; R. W. Jones, of Macon, was chosen to succeed Claude L. Whaley, also of Macon, in the sixth; C. H. Hoffstadter, of Calhoun, was chosen for another term as seventh district representative; R. W. Whittle, of Brunswick, was re-elected in the eighth, with Robert Sineath, of Adel, as co-chairman of the district; F. Q. Sammons, of Lawrenceville, was re-elected in the ninth, and M. A. McDowell was returned in the tenth, with F. B. Smith, of Augusta, and L. S. Davis, of Athens, as co-chairmen.

WATSON HOME SOUGHT AS NATIONAL SHRINE

Plan on Foot To Purchase Thomson Residence of Late Georgia Senator.

THOMSON, Ga., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A petition has been filed in McDuffie superior court seeking to incorporate the Thomson Rural Free Delivery Foundation to perpetuate the memory of the "Sage of Hockory Hill."

The corporation, which will neither have capital stock nor be for pecuniary gain, is the outgrowth of a movement to purchase the home of the late Senator Watson for the purpose of converting it into a national shrine to "the father of rural life delivery."

The decision to make the purchase was made at the annual session of the Rural Letter Carriers of the Tenth District which was held here last Memorial Day.

An annual banquet was held in Washington, Ga., Armistice Day and it was learned then that the corporation would be necessary.

Watson, while serving as a member of congress from the Tenth Georgia district is credited with having introduced the first bill in that body providing for rural delivery of mail in the United States.

Dr. Harold said the site had been purchased by the National Society for Georgia Archaeology for eventual donation to either the United States or the University of Georgia.

Work going on at Columbus and other spots in the state is showing extremely interesting finds, the archaeologist reported.

"No one knows where the earliest man settled in Georgia. If I had to guess, my guess would be in the caves of north Georgia—but I might be entirely wrong and it might be in the hills of south Georgia."

Of Kolomoki he gave this partial description: "This site is a virgin site and in all probability is eventually to prove one of the richest sites in the United States."

Governor Acts Quickly For Convicted 'Stiller'

R. L. Bowen, 64, resident of the Alpharetta district, found yesterday that the mills of justice can grind exceedingly swift.

Recently he was arrested and charged with possession of a whisky still. Last Thursday his case was called in Fulton criminal court and was postponed upon his motion. Saturday he entered a plea of guilty before Judge Jesse M. Wood and was sentenced to serve 12 months, six months of which would be on probation.

But yesterday Governor Talmadge reduced Bowen's sentence to a $100 fine, which was paid immediately. The 12 months was wiped out by executive order.

TRY THIS WAY TO QUICKLY RELIEVE ECZEMA ITCHING

If your skin is broken out with "fery" or "weeping" eczema, you want to relieve the intolerable itching and burning as quickly as possible. Resinol Ointment does this and also combats the inflammation caused by eczema—it's only base being ideal for penetrating the outer layers of the skin and securing deeper action.

Wash the affected parts with warm water and Resinol Soap. It is especially suited to tender skin—soaps containing too much alkali may irritate. After washing off scales and crusts, pat dry with a soft cloth. Do not rub.

Apply a thin layer of Resinol Ointment, letting it remain for several hours. Apply again liberally at bedtime leaving on all night. The longer Resinol is in contact with the skin, the more good it does.

Buy Resinol Soap and Ointment in any drug store. Sample free. Write Resinol, Dept. 16, Balto., Md.

CITY ECONOMY PLEDGE GOES TO BANKS TODAY

Promise by Hartsfield, Incoming Councilmen Is Nearly Complete.

Another move to get Atlanta banks to absorb $800,000 in city pay roll scrip and to obtain financial assistance in operation of the municipality for the first four months of 1937 will be launched today by Councilman Aubrey Milam, finance committee chairman.

Milam will offer formally to members of the Atlanta Clearing House Association a pledge by Atlanta council members that the new mayor and council will operate the city within revenue receipts for the next year and that a strenuous effort will be made to reduce the budget.

City leaders believe the pledge may induce Thomas K. Glenn, president, and other members of the clearing house association to reverse their decision not to cash the scrip this year.

Signature of Councilman C. M. (Mac) Bolen, who will represent the newly created fourth ward, has been awaited. Bolen is out of the city but is expected to return today.

The first issue of scrip is due Friday, and city leaders hope the way will be paved for transferring it into cash by the banks, thus obviating the necessity for employees to discount it or for mercantile establishments to absorb it.

AD CLUB DEPLORES HOWELL'S PASSING

Resolutions Pay Tribute to Life and Achievements of Editor.

Resolutions in tribute to the late Clark Howell, editor and president of The Constitution, were adopted by the Atlanta Advertising Club yesterday at its first meeting since the editor's death.

The resolutions were submitted by a committee of the club composed of James W. Petty Jr., president; George C. Biggers, of the Atlanta Journal; and Stewart Gelders, of the Atlanta Georgian and American.

The text was as follows: "Whereas, the final thirty years of the life and achievements of the Honorable Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Atlanta Constitution; and

"Whereas, the entire nation has suffered a great loss at his passing, and the publishing business in all its branches has suffered an especial loss;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Atlanta Advertising Club express in these resolutions its sorrow, its deep sense of loss and its appreciation of the unselfish and far-reaching service he gave to his nation, his community and his calling during his distinguished career."

The speaker of the day was Professor M. R. Brewster, of the business economics department of Emory University, who explained the use in sales promotion of the new permanent census tracts established for Atlanta and surveyed under his supervision for the War Relocation Administration in co-operation with the United States Census Bureau and Georgia Department of Public Welfare.

LIQUOR CONFISCATIONS SHOW SHARP INCREASE

Liquor confiscations this year have increased considerably over last year, and the previous year, figures announced yesterday by Captain John A. Scharf, police department custodian, revealed.

From January 1 to the end of October, a total of 8,907 gallons of whisky had been seized. This figure compares with a total of 5,020 gallons for the whole of 1935, and 5,104 gallons confiscated here in 1934.

Captain Scharf pointed out the figures indicate either more liquor is being sent into the city since legalization of beer and wine, or that police are getting proportionately more of the import.

MRS. ROBERT PROTHRO DIES IN MILLEDGEVILLE

Mrs. Robert F. Prothro, 45, of 124 Estoria street, S. E., died at Milledgeville Tuesday night after a short illness.

Surviving are two children, Mrs. Julius Young and R. J. Prothro, of Atlanta; a brother, J. R. Vandegriff, and two sisters, Mrs. E. F. Harding, of Atlanta, and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, of New York.

Services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Jenkinsburg, Ga., Baptist church and burial will be in the churchyard.

JUSTICE CANDIDATES MUST REGISTER TODAY

Candidates for justice of the peace and constable of Fulton's 32 militia districts must register today with the Fulton county ordinary in order to qualify for election December 5.

Claude Mason, chief deputy in the office of Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries, announced yesterday.

Justices of the peace and constables will be elected in the districts in the election held December 5 and the law requires registration for qualification 15 days before the election, Mason said.

ANNIVERSARY PLANNED BY EX-SLAVES' GROUP

Plans for an anniversary program Christmas Eve featuring the experiences of ex-slaves are being formulated by the Ex-slave Association of the City of Atlanta and Fulton County. This program will mark the twenty-second anniversary of the association. The association was organized to aid ex-slaves and aged colored people who have no means of support and to provide them with the necessities of life during their declining years, it was announced. Officers of the association make monthly visits to the homes of the ex-slaves to supply their needs.

'Defender' of U. S. Flag Pays $24 as Offender

Although claiming his action in removing four American flags from the Community Chest platform at Five Points was "merely a gesture of respect," a man listed as T. C. Elrod, 29, of College Park, was fined $24 yesterday.

The defendant, who was taken into custody at Forsyth and Marietta streets early yesterday morning on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct, told Recorder A. W. Callaway he removed the flags "because they are not supposed to fly at night."

Recorder Callaway pointed out, however, that Elrod "carried the flags too far away after hauling them down."

"Those flags were there to decorate the platform," said the recorder, "and I think it is proper, when so used, for the colors to fly all night."

'Snow White' Is Black And Convicted as Wet

This is a study in contrasts discovered yesterday by Solicitor John McClelland in Fulton criminal court.

Snow White, who is black, declared stoutly he was a dry when charged with violation of the prohibition law but Judge Jesse M. Wood found him guilty of being a wet.

Snow White is the name of a negro man who was fined $100 and given a 12-month sentence, suspended on payment of the fine.

MRS. BESSIE A. FULTON FUNERAL TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie A. Fulton, of 1778 Melrose drive, S. W., veteran employee of Marcus Loeb & Co., overall manufacturers, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Capitol View Baptist church.

The Rev. W. Lee Cutts will officiate and burial will be in West View cemetery. Mrs. Fulton was stricken at the plant Tuesday morning and died shortly after medical aid was called. She had been an employee there for 33 years.

LINT SALES TO SPAIN DROP, EXCHANGE SAYS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Repercussions of the Spanish civil war are being felt in the south.

Last year $15,000,000 worth of American cotton was sold to Spanish firms.

This year, with the season nearly one-third over, statistics compiled by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange disclosed that not a bale has been shipped to Spanish mills.

FORD

advances into 1937 with the

and new operating economy

THE ADDITION of a new 60-horsepower engine to the Ford line for 1937 brings you a new, low price and gives you a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines. 85 horsepower for maximum performance. 60 horsepower for maximum economy.

In basic design, the new 60-horsepower V-8 engine is a replica of its famous older brother—the V-8 "85." But its reduced size and weight make possible a lighter car, with lower operating costs, and the lowest Ford price in years.

The 60-horsepower engine was originally developed for use in England and France, where fuel costs are high and fuel economy is vitally important. It has been proven there for two years with brilliant success. Now, brought to America, it creates an entirely new standard of modern motoring economy!

The "60" engine is built in exactly the same body size and wheelbase, to the same advanced design, with the same comfort and convenience as the "85." It has all the distinctive Ford features for 1937. And it delivers V-8 smoothness and quietness at speeds up to 70 miles an hour.

Two engine sizes—but only one car and one purpose—to give you more miles and more satisfaction for your money in 1937. We invite you to see this very modern car at the showrooms of the nearest Ford dealer.

FORD FEATURES FOR 1937

APPEARANCE—Distinctive modern design. Headlamps streamlined into fender aprons. Modern lid-type hood. Larger luggage space. Interiors entirely new. Slanting V-type windshield opens in all closed cars.

BRAKES—The Easy-Action Safety Brakes in the new Ford give you "the safety of steel from pedal to wheel." Cable and conduit control type. Self-energizing. About one-third less pedal pressure is required to stop the car.

BODY—All steel. Top, sides, floor and frame welded into a single steel unit of great protective strength. Safety Glass throughout at no extra charge.

COMFORT AND QUIET—A big, roomy car with extra space in the body, where you want it—not taken up by the engine under the hood. Comfort of the Ford Center-Poise Ride is increased by smoother spring-action with new pressure lubrication. New methods of mounting body and engine make this a quieter car.

Tech Impressive in Offensive Scrimmage; Blocking Is Great

You walk from your world into their world. It is a small world, this one of theirs, but there are those who love it.

It is the small world of the Scottish Rite hospital for crippled children.

In that great play, "Green Pastures," De Lawd stood one day looking out of the windows of his office in Heaven. And Gabriel, fondling his trumpet, said:

"You forgot about Earth, Lawd."
"Earth?" asked De Lawd. "What Earth?"
"Dat place you made de day of de fish fry," said Gabriel. "De people of Earth am complainin' agin."

"I had forgot about Earth for a fact," said De Lawd. "I guess I better go see about 'em. (He reached for his hat and put it on his head.) I'll be back Sat'dy," he said. And went out the door.

Those that love this little world of the crippled children never forget it. And each year, that there may be available all the facilities of the world for the helpless ones, they play this football game between the freshmen of Georgia and Georgia Tech.

Annually the game is a good one, one of the best football games of the year.

It is a unique game. Every cent received from the sale of tickets goes to the hospital. Other cities have tried the idea of a game for some hospital. But always their expenses are too heavy.

There are people who love this little world. And for that reason the game sends literally all its money to the hospital. The players are transported from Athens to Atlanta without expense. The ticket sellers and takers work without compensation. The newspapermen covering the game buy tickets. Literally every cent goes to the hospital.

Your dollar for your ticket will be translated into new bones, new spines, new skin. Your dollars become, through the magic of this game, food and sheets and surgeon's equipment, X-ray film—your dollars—100 cents of your dollars—go to the children in the hospital.

This game is to be played Thanksgiving afternoon at Grant field.

YESTERDAY AT THEIR WORLD.

Yesterday at their world—
It was warm and once inside the door there was the feeling of gentleness and kindness and understanding. No one scolds in this little world.

In the wards they slept or awaited the school hour. There were babies and boys and girls up to 13 years of age.

There is a sweetness and a gentleness there that will make the throat constrict. It is that sort of a world so that even small babies, their legs and feet in casts, look out from their beds with patient eyes and usually with a smile.

It is so much their world that they become a part of it a day after they arrive. The boys at one wing can see Annie Kate when she comes to work every morning and they ask her what is ahead for the meals that day. And the meals are the best.

Annie Kate, the cook with some of the gentleness in her heart for the people of the little world in which she lives, assured a questioner just the other day that the

CASUALTY LIST BRINGS GLOOM TO CODY'S CREW

McCarty, Mayberry Twist Ankles; Fogle Injures Knee at Florida.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 18.—(P)—Injuries received by Florida football players in a long line scrimmage today brought gloom to the "Gator camp."

Capt. Josh Cody was discouraged over the prospect of meeting Georgia Tech Saturday with the casualty list mounting.

John McCarty, promising end, was hurt when a teammate fell across his ankle. G. C. Fogle, reserve guard, received an injury to a knee which has been hurt before.

The ace quarterback, Walter Mayberry, twisted an ankle. Coaches hoped McCarty and Mayberry would be ready by Saturday.

A nip-and-tuck battle has developed for the regular center position. Bill Williams ran through practice with the first stringers today. Yesterday, Jim Oxford held down the spot.

Three players are scrapping for the chance to start at fullback. Benny Golden, an out-and-out substitute until two weeks ago, was the first-stringer today. Bugs Hendricks and Moon Mullins alternated on the second team. Mullins apparently had the position clinched until an injury kept him out for two weeks. The experience he gained meanwhile gives Hendricks an edge.

Ed Manning is shaping up as the second-string quarterback since Bob Ivey was slowed down by an injury last Saturday.

Because of today's crop of hurts, Nelson Davis, junior guard, and Tom Walker, sophomore end, probably will see service against Georgia Tech.

The first team today was composed of Watson Ramsey and Floyd Christian, ends; Charlie Root and Harry Kickliter, tackles; Julian Lane and Frank Koseles, guards; Williams, center; Mayberry, Ken Willis, Paul Brock and Golden, backs.

LOUIS-BRADDOCK NEARS REALITY

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(P)—An Atlantic City decision fight between James J. Braddock and Joe Louis seemed a step nearer reality tonight.

The New York state athletic commission, which had been expected to oppose the fight, indicated it would adopt a neutral stand, at its meeting today.

The commission intimated that if Braddock will sign articles to fight Max Schmeling next June and post a $5,000 bond, what does Louis, outside of New York, is his own affair.

Called before the boxing solons presumably to be grilled and possibly spanked, Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, left a half-hour session claiming a victory.

"They as good as told me if I'd sign a contract for Jim to defend his title against Schmeling next June, I can go ahead and arrange some fights," he said. "Why, I'll put that money up right away."

Without venturing directly to the Atlantic City venture, Chairman John J. Phelan reminded Gould he had agreed to negotiate for no fights without the sanction of the commission.

Feldman Kayoed

By Leroy Haynes

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(P)—Leroy Haynes, Philadelphia negro heavyweight, made "short work" of the Brooklyn veteran, Al Feldman, tonight. Haynes scored a knockout in the second round of their 10-rounder in the Hippodrome.

Haynes scaled 199 3-4 and Feldman 180 1-4. Haynes surprised the small gallery of 3,000 by flooring the rugged Feldman, rated tops as a heavyweight trial horse, four times before he dropped the Brooklyn boy to his corner. The end came after 1:41 of the second round had elapsed. It was the first time Feldman had been knocked off his feet in five years of ring campaigning.

Commercial League Will Open Tonight

Fisher Body and Warren Company basketball teams will meet in the first game of a twin bill at the Atlanta Athletic Club tonight as the Atlanta Commercial league opens its 12-game schedule. The game is scheduled to start at 7:45 o'clock with Dixieland and Gulf Refining meeting in a second game.

This is the second season in basketball for the association. While only four teams are in the league it is expected to be the fastest league in the city with star lineups representing each club. The league will play all games on Thursday night of each week through the split season schedule.

KOON KONEMANN, MOORE, EDWARDS STARS OF SESSION

Jackets Turn in Finest Practice of Year for Florida Tilt.

By Jack Troy.

Those Tech Jackets tried everything against the freshmen yesterday and everything worked. Simply because the Tech players blocked.

And how they did block. Dutch Konemann looked like the wild horse of the Ozone; Scrappy Edwards was a ghost, and even Ed Jones, on end-around plays, had the appearance of a Grange in a broken field.

Then there were the fleeting dashes of Jimmy Moore, running on Mack Tharpe's pet pass play; the powerful off-tackle rushes of "Nunc" Tharpe, and Lawrence Hays, and the pile-driving line hucks of Harry Appleby.

All this was due to a very fine brand of blocking, the old-fashioned kind where opponents are flattened out as if passed over by a steam roller.

This was a "first half" Tech team. The Jackets started out running and ended up in the same fashion. All afternoon—the scrimmage lasted more than an hour—the freshmen were busily engaged in picking themselves up and putting themselves back down for another play.

LONG RUNS.
There were long scoring dashes, featuring the elusive Konemann and Edwards.

And all because, as said, there was some very fine blocking.

Captain Mit FitzSimons, who has an injured ankle, sat on the sidelines and marveled at the performance. "I wonder what has happened to them," Fitz asked, speaking of the savage blocking of his teammates. "I haven't seen anything like that all year."

Neither had anybody else, including the old guard on the sidelines. Coach Alex sent the boys into the scrimmage with instructions to cut down the ends and secondary, and cut 'em down they did.

All this, of course, was in preparation for the Florida game Saturday at Grant field.

Tech hadn't looked that good in scrimmage coming up to the Kentucky game. They simply hadn't looked that good at any previous time this season.

THE GENERAL IDEA.

One of the spectators remarked afterward that "It looks as if Tech is going to reach a very fine edge for the Florida game."

That's the general idea. Red Collins' blocking was great while he was used. He took part in more than half of the scrimmage and

Georgia Meets—"The Seven Blocks of Granite"

Ram Forward Wall Called One of Greatest in History.

By Paul Mickelson.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(P)—Meet Fordham's "seven blocks of granite." No. 18... a 1,351-pound forward wall of bone and muscle rated by enemy linemen as the nearest approach to an immovable object in the topsy-turvy lore of college football.

No. 10... Leo Pagnin, descendant from a long line of Frenchmen who never were wrong, patrols left end. Comes from Brockton, Mass., where he played on Kent's Hill prep team.

Without venturing directly to the Atlantic City venture, Chairman John J. Phelan reminded Gould he had agreed to negotiate for no fights without the sanction of the commission.

Bulldogs To Hit Ram Line For Luck, If Nothing Else

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia will be one of those Texas teams next Saturday at New York. That is to say, the Georgia team will do a lot of flinging of the football and some running of the ends.

There is nothing else to do when one is up against a line which has earned a title such as "The Seven Blocks of Granite."

But, I can assure one and all that Mr. Henry Mehre will have his quarterback backs have a try or so at the Seven Blocks of Granite.

No Major Team Has Scored a Touchdown Against Them—Yet.

pass attack isn't rushed too much by the seven blocks of granite, then this may be a football game and not a parade by the Fordham backs. There is no telling what will happen. Fordham should win by a plucky chair margin. But Fordham may not. (See result of Duquesne-Pitt game.)

LEAVE TODAY.
The Bulldogs will move out of Athens this afternoon and head for New York. At New York they will be at the Croydon hotel while the extra-curricular members of the party, which is to say newspapermen and the fanatics, will be at the New Yorker.

They will work out Friday afternoon at the Polo Grounds, hard by Coogan's bluffs, that being the site of the game. Where the Giants pulled down fly balls the Bulldogs will try to pull down some forward passes.

The Bulldogs likely will play before 50,000 on Saturday. Up east the Fordham have a very great following. And when Georgia defeated Tulane it sent Georgia stock in the east soaring to great heights. Colgate is very highly regarded up east and when Tulane defeated Colgate the idea got around the Green Wave was one of the nation's great teams. And then Georgia beat 'em.

So, they'll all be there to see the game.

The enemy knows him as the "menacing Pole."

No. 40... Vincent Lombardi, right guard, is Fordham's workhorse—steady and deadly effective on close-up play. On offense, Vince switches guard posts with Pierce. Is a Brooklyn boy, a senior, weighs 188 and is 5 feet 11. Fine blocker on end plays. Called "Butch."

Commercial League Will Open Tonight

Fisher Body and Warren Company basketball teams will meet in the first game of a twin bill at the Atlanta Athletic Club tonight as the Atlanta Commercial league opens its 12-game schedule. The game is scheduled to start at 7:45 o'clock with Dixieland and Gulf Refining meeting in a second game.

This is the second season in basketball for the association. While only four teams are in the league it is expected to be the fastest league in the city with star lineups representing each club. The league will play all games on Thursday night of each week through the split season schedule.

Cornelia, Toccoa Clash on Friday

CORNELIA, Ga., Nov. 18.—The most exciting football game of the present season is promised local fans at Cornelia Friday when Toccoa High school meets Cornelia High school in the annual game.

The following matches will also be seen: Tony Pappalardo meets Don Jose, Mexican; Glenn Cowan, Atlanta policeman-wrestler, meets Pete Manassau, Asserin. The opening match could easily headline the card. Joe Williams, Knoxville, meets John Ellis, New York Greek.

The usual low prices will prevail. Reserve seats may be obtained by calling Main 2530.

Towns Resting After Appendectomy--33 Bulldogs Make Trip

HURDLES CHAMP IS FEARED LOST TILL NEXT YEAR

Mehre Planned To Use Track Star in Pass Attack.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 18.—An appendectomy laid low Forrest Speer, Georgia's stellar end and world's champion hurdler, tonight as Coach Harry Mehre's squad made ready to depart Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, by train for New York city and the Fordham game.

Hospital attaches reported the Olympic hero resting well. Coach Weems Baskin, tutor of the star, said upon doctor advice Towns will be withheld from athletic competition until next spring. This put the damper on his plans to participate in the sugar bowl meet at New Orleans in December and various other indoor meets.

Coach Mehre expressed sincere regret at the loss of the star in view of the fact that the impregnable Fordham line was dreading Towns as an opponent.

"I wasn't planning to use him except possibly for some pass receiving," Coach Mehre commented. "It is in that Tech game which I was planning to use him most." Towns came near having attacked several times last spring but ice packs and other means were used to stave the necessity for the incision. Coach Mehre said he supposed that it was luck that enabled Towns to see as much action as he did this fall.

Track Coach Weems Baskin said he was not surprised in the least. "In fact, I was expecting it since Towns has had a hard campaign during the past year," he added.

Towns reported to the infirmary about 4 o'clock this afternoon, saying that he had a pain. He was ordered to bed for a short rest. Coach Baskin was notified and immediately after practice rushed up to the infirmary and after a hurried conference with Dr. Reynolds and Towns the decision to operate was reached.

The Augustan scored Georgia's lone touchdown against Tech. He has played in every game except the first one with Mercer. Due to a barnstorming tour abroad after the Olympic games he had not shown up for grid drills for the first three weeks.

His campaign, which really began the summer after his sophomore year, brought him world records and many high hurdles championships. It was at Oslo, Norway, after the Olympic games that he ran his best which was 13.7 for the 110 meter. He won the final in the event in the Olympics by crossing the barriers in 14.1 which time he has equalled four times.

Friday Show Features Variety

Friday night's wrestling show at the Atlanta theater should please all types of mat fans. Certainly Milo Steinborn and Hans Steinke, the Germans, are rough enough. If it is science the customers are asking for, Dorve Roche, Blue Sun Jennings and Roland Kirchmeyer will fill the bill.

And if the crowd wants a laugh, well, Sol Szagel, the Jewish contortionist from New York, who is called the "human pretzel," could make a cow go into convulsions. Yes, sir, this show seems to have what it takes.

Fans don't hear much about Roland Kirchmeyer, who meets monstrous Hans Steinke in a 12 round match. The tall Oklahoma man just comes into town, quietly goes about his work of making an evening miserable for his opponent with a series of intricate holds, and is gone without any commotion being associated with his appearance.

But when it comes to wrestling the hard, straight way, this former Oklahoma A. and M. matman, who was on the United States Olympic team in 1928, being the first great wrestler of a college which since has taken a strange hold on national collegiate titles, is all there.

Those long, slim legs of Kirchmeyer's pack lots of power. He is most adept at the top science. Hans Steinke had an easy time with Swede Anderson last week, but Kirchmeyer will afford the 240-pound German a chance to prove why he has been the champion in the first 10 for a dozen or so years.

Dorve Roche, speedy and clever Slav, will oppose Blue Sun Jennings, Indian nerve kick specialist, in the main event. It should be a highly entertaining and thrilling match.

Steinborn, the German Lion, and Szagel, "the man of a thousand shapes," will collide in the semi-final.

Laing, 'Chase Rider, Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Noel Laing, gentleman jockey and horse trainer of Amisville, Va., and Pinehurst, N. C., died in a hospital here at 2:30 p. m. today of a prolonged illness caused by a malignant infection.

Laing, who was 28 years old, was widely known in racing circles in the east, having trained a number of steeplechasers appearing on eastern tracks.

Laing had been ill since March. He went to a clinic in Rochester, Minn., in July and entered a Washington hospital in September. His condition had been critical for the past several weeks.

Williamson's Predictions

By P. B. Williamson.

The best proof of the pudding as to the accuracy and reliability of any football rating system or prognosticator is clearly shown most convincingly by the weekly card of intercollegiate games.

Last week in 36 intercollegiate games there were only 2 jarring upsets against the Williamson pre-game ratings; giving a consistency efficiency of 94.4 per cent. A system that bats over 90 per cent on intercollegiate games in any one week must be nationally fair and pretty well balanced.

Seven more games came in over the week-end, including four games played on Sunday. The system hit 100 per cent on the seven, including Santa Clara 49, St. Mary's 0, St. Thomas, Pa. 13, St. Vincent 6.

The foregoing gave the Williamson system on 276 games a record of 16 upsets losses not figured on, and 12 upsets ties; or an efficiency of 93.4 per cent. A pretty good answer, we feel.

Fordham has a great team, Louisiana State and Alabama are great teams. If anything, they have played more consistently against harder schedules than Fordham. Comparative scores clearly show it in a convincing way, although the comparative-score method is often unreliable.

Representative football games throughout the United States this week-end are listed below with each team's rating according to the Williamson National Rating System. Where no rating is given, the schedule is insufficient for calculating one clearly. Some omissions may be due to incomplete returns. Every college and normal team is sent its record and schedule to Williamson National Rating System, Inc., 608 Common St., New Orleans, La.

EXPLANATION: Figure after each team is its rating according to the current Williamson football rating table published last Tuesday. In "Predict" column: 1, means win for No. 1 Team; 2, means win for No. 2 Team; 3, means possible tie game or close outcome; R, means prediction reversed against ratings. No. 1 Team plays at home. X, Friday afternoon; Y, Friday night; Z, Saturday night.

Where the symbol "X" appears with a number in the Predict column, the team named is favored, but a close outcome one way or the other is not unexpected. A difference of 5 percentage points or less in the ratings of two teams often indicates that their game is a "close-up." However, is from 85 to 90 per cent of cases the higher rated team is due to win, even when the difference in ratings is small.

TYPISTS MEET RUSSELL FRIDAY IN EAST POINT

Decatur Battles Spalding in Important N.G.I.C. Clash.

By Jack Troy.

That thin, wavering call to the chins is going out.

All Tech supporters are asked to avoid carefully such things as black cats crossing their paths, walking under ladders, breaking mirrors or looking straight at cross-eyed persons this week.

The Tech Jackets already have had more than their share of hard luck this season, and the game coming up with Florida Saturday at Grant field is the 13th game of a series that started in 1912.

The 1913 game was won by Tech, 13 to 3.

Year before last Tech had a lead of 12 to 0 in the third quarter and Florida, staging a whirlwind finish, won the game, 13 to 12.

Dick Beard, who wears Jersey No. 13 on the Tech varsity, has been dogged by foot and leg injuries all season. And so it is to be hoped Tech will discard that jersey before Saturday.

TWO 7-7 TIES.

Tech has won eight games, Florida two, in the series. Two of the games, those of 1923 and 1924, resulted in 7-7 ties.

In the 12 games, Tech has scored 189 points, Florida 78.

But Florida has won two of the past six games. An Orange and Blue tornado swept out of Gainesville in 1930 and crushed the Yellow Jackets, 55 to 7, at Grant field.

Then, too, there was that 1934 game.

There was a game . . . It was played at Gainesville. The Seminary To Hold Swim Meet Tonight

Washington Seminary will hold its annual fall swimming meet at 8 o'clock tonight in the Atlanta Athletic Club pool, with Miss Ligon in charge.

It will be an interclass meet with each class having stronger representation than in past years.

RIFLE SHOOTING DRAWS LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—One hundred and sixty-six women and 177 men are trying out for places on the women's and men's rifle teams at the University of Kansas.

Auburn, Miss. State To Resume Series

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Auburn and Mississippi State will resume football relations in a game here October 16 next year after a lapse of six years.

Colonel Paul B. Parker, director of athletics at the Mississippi school, announced today negotiations for the game had been completed. The two eleven have met 13 times on the gridiron.

Auburn Accepts Bid For Game in Havana

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The post-season football game New Year's Day feature of Cuba's "Week-of-Sports" carnival will have Auburn as one opponent, and either Marquette, Pittsburgh, Temple or George Washington as the other.

Carlos L. Henriquez, who is arranging the schedule for the week of December 26 to New Year's Day, said tonight Auburn has definitely accepted the invitation to play in the game at Havana, and that the acceptance from the other eleven is expected tomorrow. It was believed Marquette's so far undefeated, untied eleven would get the call.

The football game tops a program that includes fights, track, and basketball. In the latter, Columbia, Tulane, Louisiana State, Mexico and Cuba will have teams competing. Henriquez said Jesse Owens, the United States' one-man track team from Ohio State, has agreed to be on hand for the track exhibition.

SANTA CLARA, Cal., Nov. 18.—(UP)—Santa Clara University, the west coast's only unbeaten, untied football aggregation this season, tonight turned down an offer to play in Havana, Cuba, on New Year's Day.

The school received two invitations to play in Havana. One came from Carlos Henriquez, director of sports for the Cuban government, and the other from Jack Meagher, coach of Auburn, suggesting the game as a rematch between his team and the Californians.

ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Found in a cell on the fourth floor of police headquarters with a head injury, a prisoner listed as J. C. Merritt, 50, of 1126 Sells avenue, was taken to Grady hospital early this morning, where he died a short time later.

Merritt, who had been taken into custody on a charge of intoxication, was found by the turnkey. Witnesses told police that the turnkey, J. J. Carroll, said that Merritt had been struck by another prisoner, listed as Clark Campbell, of Lithonia.

Campbell denied he struck Merritt, but admitted pushing him. Police are investigating.

Detective's Invitation Brings in Wanted Man

A detective's calling card led to a charge of suspicion of murder against a negro yesterday.

The detective, A. D. Poole, left his card at a drug store at Fort street and Highland avenue, with a request that Lindse Lindse sought in connection with the fatal stabbing Sunday of Jessie Newsome, negro, communicate with him.

The card was given Lindse, and he called at police headquarters, where he was promptly arrested.

"I'm going to quit going out looking for suspects, and let them come looking for me," Detective Poole said jokingly, in commenting on the Lindse murder.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—

A labor-leader of the House of commons declared in an interview today that King Edward was seeking support of communists in his fight for friendship with Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson—and even marriage if he wished.

James Maxton, of the extreme socialist labor group in the commons, said he had been called upon by Mr. Winston Churchill's government to report to combat opposition from the aristocracy to his association with Mrs. Simpson.

He made assertions in the presence of William Gallacher, only communist member of parliament, and declared that the only reason he did not bring the subject directly before parliament was the rule of procedure banning questions directly affecting

Sentiment Plays Conspicuous Part In Plans for Debutante Parties

By Sally Forth.

SENTIMENT is playing a large part in current debutante affairs and each party Sally hears about bears some cherished memory which is brought to light upon these auspicious occasions when the debbies make their bows to society. Last evening, when Martha Burnett was presented to society at the Piedmont Driving Club supper-dance, she carried a beautiful colonial bouquet of roses, snapdragons, lilies of the valley, larkspur and sweet peas, sent to her by Mr. and Mrs. Jess Burnett, her paternal grandparents. The bouquet was a duplicate of the one carried by Mrs. Burnett when, as Miss Ella Ellis, she became the bride of Mr. Burnett 50 years ago at the ante-bellum plantation of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Ellis, in Greenville, Ala.

SENTIMENT is connected with the lovely dress in which Julia Colquitt made her debut yesterday afternoon. Although it is a far cry from an engagement ring to a debut gown, the exquisite diamond ring presented by Julia's mother when she became betrothed to the debbie's father, is responsible for the beautiful creation in which Julia made her formal bow to society.

Ever since Julia was a little girl, her mother planned that her daughter's debut dress would carry out the bowknot design which characterizes her engagement ring. Fashioned of layers of billowy white tulle, the design was introduced on the costume by its trimming of narrow white velvet ribbon, bowknots. The graceful bowknots were applied on the full floor-length skirt at intervals and also formed the shoulder straps of the dress which was so becoming to its wearer's pliant beauty.

SALLY is wondering if two events of the past week in any way herald wedding bells. The affair was a buffet supper and the hosts received a note from one of the masculine guests declining the invitation, saying that he was engaged, and, inasmuch as his fiancée had not been invited, he would be unable to attend. The hosts, well known for their gracious hospitality, extended not only an invitation to the future bride, but also congratulations to the young man. However, the engaged couple did not appear.

The other angle Sally is checking on concerns one of the debutantes. It was the same party and she was one of the honor guests. She arrived an hour and a half late and upon entering she announced she could not even take the time to remove her coat, for she had only a minute to stay. She and her escort have been rumored engaged for some time, and Sally is wondering if discussion of wedding plans necessitated their lateness in arriving and their quick departure.

THIS time next Thursday Nell Winship and Elizabeth See will be dashing hither and yon in Washington, attending Thanksgiving festivities in the national capital as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Broadbent. These "turkey day" affairs will be only a prelude to one of the most exciting dates Nell and Elizabeth have ever had—going to the Army-Navy game on Saturday week in Philadelphia. Nell, who is attending the University of Georgia, will arrive here Tuesday to join Elizabeth, and the duo of charming belles will leave that evening for Washington, D. C.

Miss Sarah Nichols Honored at Parties Prior to Marriage

A number of delightful prenuptial affairs are being given in compliment to Miss Sarah Nichols, whose marriage to Thomas Jackson Jones takes place December 5. Miss Marjorie Hollingsworth gives a steak fry this evening at her home on Clifton road, honoring Miss Nichols and Mr. Jones.

On Saturday, November 21, Miss Margaret Cheshire and Miss Mary Snow will be joint hostesses at a luncheon in honor of the bride-elect. That evening Miss Jean Hicks entertains in honor of Miss Nichols and her fiancé at her home on North Decatur road.

November 24, Miss Sara Frances Estes entertains in compliment to Miss Nichols, and November 29, Mrs. John Nichols will be hostess at an open house at the home of her mother, Mrs. Paul D. MacQuiston, on Springdale road, the affair to assemble several hundred members of the married and unmarried social contingent.

Miss Elaine Ahles was hostess on November 15 at a tea and miscellaneous shower for Miss Nichols at her home on Oxford road. She was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. C. V. Ahles. Throughout the house full flowers and autumn leaves were artistically arranged to form effective decorations and a wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom graced the center of the table.

Present were Misses Jean Hicks, Marjorie Hollingsworth, Caroline Brim, Myra O'Neal, Miriam Woodall, Mary Snow, Margaret Cheshire, Gertrude Loefer, Harriet Oxford, Ellen O'Donnell, Doreen McMahon, Mrs. Vernon Shearer, Mrs. Gene Murphy, Mrs. Charles Miller. Additional parties honoring Miss Nichols and her fiancé will be announced later.

Miss Julia Colquitt Makes Bow At Beautiful Home Reception

Miss Julia Colquitt, lovely debutante daughter of Judge and Mrs. Walter T. Colquitt, made her formal debut yesterday afternoon at a reception at which her mother introduced her daughter to society's married and unmarried contingents at her home on Habersham road. The rooms of the lower floor in which the guests assembled were decorated with brilliantly colored autumn flowers with golden yellow chrysanthemums predominating in the floral motif.

In the dining room where tea was served from two beautifully appointed tables, tall roses, Perpetua roses and valley lilies formed the central decoration. An oblong shaped plateau of Perpetua roses, fringed with valley lilies, was arranged in the center of one of the lace-covered tables. A silver fountain effect rose from the center of the plateau and on either side were silver candelabra in which gleamed ivory tapers.

The second table was graced in the center by an antique china swan in which an artistic arrangement of tall roses and valley lilies. Dresden china candelsticks holding cream-colored lighted tapers adorned either side of the centerpiece and handsome silver coffee and tea services were arranged at each end of the table. China epergnes filled with richly-colored fruits graced the buffets and consoles.

The debutante and her mother were assisted in receiving by the former's grandmother, Mrs. E. M. Dunning, and by Mrs. Preston Arkwright Sr. and Mrs. George Howard, aunts of the debutante. They received in the drawing room, standing before a background of palms, foliage plants and innumerable baskets and bouquets of flowers sent the young debutante by her host of friends and admirers. Miss Colquitt wore an exquisite gown for this auspicious occasion made of white silk net posed over white satin. The full graceful skirt, which was of floor length, was formed of layers of the billowy net and trimmed with bowknots of narrow white velvet ribbon. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of gardenias fringed with valley lilies held in a lace holder and tied with white velvet ribbon.

For Miss Toombs And Miss Hood

Woman Editor Recalls First Interview Was With Madam Schumann-Heink

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, Editor of the Woman's Department.

When the writer was cutting her eye teeth in journalism, an order from the city editor dispatched her on her first assignment to get an interview from the late Madam Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

A very frightened and timid lady of the press entered the hotel where the famous contralto diva was registered.

But fear soon vanished. A fluttering heart ceased its rapid beating when the door opened and Madam Schumann-Heink's engaging smile, warm handclasp and friendly greeting welcomed the green reporter across the threshold.

Her shapely throat and magnificent chest were exposed to view by the V-neck dress she wore, and I vividly recall the 20 songs she sang that morning. Her glorious voice measured up to every melodious note she sang with the greatest ease.

When I remarked that it was my birthday anniversary, Madam Schumann-Heink placed her arm around my waist and implanted a kiss on my forehead.

An exceedingly important Atlanta potentate had sent several dozen red roses to the great singer and the flowers lent a certain charm to the hotel room. After my declaration about my natal day, she took the roses from the vase and placed them in my arms.

So entranced over the rich experience was the lady from the press the deadline for the afternoon edition was entirely forgotten. Only the tinkle of the telephone bell and the voice of the city editor brought me back to earth and caused a mad scramble back to the newspaper office to turn in the interview. Although the intervening years since that first assignment are but a thread woven in the tapestry of time, the writer holds an affectionate regard for Madam Schumann-Heink, because she gave encouragement and pleasure to a cub reporter. Quite naturally, red roses always have suggested the vivid personality of the greatest contralto songbird of her time.

My Day

By
ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

DETROIT, Mich.—Tuesday—As I stepped off the train in Detroit at 7:50 this morning Mrs. Stringer, under whose auspices I am speaking tonight, completely took my breath away by telling me that 300 young people had come down to greet me and were waiting outside the station. The mere thought that that number of youngsters had bestirred themselves at such an early hour to have nothing more than a nod and a good morning from me, was too appalling. Luckily, I discovered that in actual fact there were only about 30 Boy and Girl Scouts lined up to present me with a beautiful bunch of flowers.

I wish I had time to see all the interesting things which people are so anxious to show me. There is at Albion, some hundred odd miles from here, quite a remarkable school for boys. It is not a reformatory but a school, and is run by a Mr. Starr who started it on his own initiative and has gradually interested other people in his work. The boys may be difficult boys, but the training they receive has been successful so far, for many have become good citizens.

After a very pleasant lunch with some friends, to which Mrs. Scheider and I were taken by my brother who is here for a few days every week, I returned to the hotel to be whisked off by representatives of the Youth Administration. They are doing an exceptionally interesting guidance and placement project in co-operation with the public schools and the United States Re-employment Service.

In the United States Re-employment Service they are placing about 125 young people a week, many of whom have had no previous experience. In their office here they use about 75 young people who in this way receive training which makes them eligible for better jobs. The government departments are co-operating in the training end of this program. The board of appraisers is using a great many of the NYA boys and girls and is giving them a chance to become proficient on very complicated business machines.

It was nice when our breakfast was brought in this morning to see a familiar and smiling face. It was the same waiter who had greeted me the day that my husband was here. In explanation of the length of time we had to wait for our order that night he had said:

"The President is in town and nothing can move as expeditiously as usual."

When I got out of the car to enter the hotel this afternoon an elderly man grasped me warmly by the hand and said:

"God bless you, Mrs. Roosevelt. How is the President?"

It's a friendly world, isn't it?

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Through a friend I have met a fine fellow who is in the navy. A cleaner minded, higher toned boy would be hard to find. Friends come up to me and say, "Who are you going with these days?" I answer with a proud statement and then they ask: "What does he do?"—"In the navy." Some laugh, some grunt and some fling me a funny look. I'd like to slap their faces. It hurts me for the public to judge everybody in the navy by one or two. But what can I do about it? DISGUSTED.

Answer: You can't do a thing but grin and bear the cynicism and rudeness of your friends and trust to a kind Fate that your Middle will let you have the last laugh which is always best. The idea is pretty prevalent that a sailor lad has a gal in every port. But it must be true that love does for the lad in uniform what it does for the lad in civilian clothes—takes him out of general circulation.

Crochet Flowers in Color on Spread

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Color Combined with White is Effective

PATTERN 5741

Puzzled about what to give Aunt Mary or Cousin Sue for Christmas? Crochet a dainty handkerchief case (two squares would make it), a pillow or scarf! Lovely indeed, are these delicate squares measuring 8 inches, their colorful popcorn flowers set off by the lacy mesh. Besides many small articles, they also make a bedspread of unusual beauty and grace. Hunt up colorful scraps of string, if the flowers of each block are to be different. In pattern 5741 you will find instructions for making the square shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

The Woman Who Could Wear This Large Elgin on Her Wrist Would Weigh in the Neighborhood of 2,200 Pounds and Stand 96 Feet in Height

THIS LARGE MODEL ELGIN DIAMOND WATCH, held by the young lady in the accompanying photograph, is the exact replica of a current diamond-set Elgin. The "stones" in this large watch would weigh 500 karats, and the weight of the watch itself is three and one-half pounds. Besides the enormous weight and height of the Elgin woman who could wear this watch, her shoes would be size 90, and she would require a size 117 glove. Her waist would measure 486 inches, and in choosing a hat she would have to select a size 444. Her arm, with length of 542 inches, would probably just fit her. Her arm would measure 456 inches, and her armspread would reach 1,134 inches, while her wrist measurement would be approximately 27 inches. If her "boy friend" should wish to give her an engagement ring, he'd have to get size 99. This very unusual watch is now on exhibition in the window of the Claude S. Bennett Jewelry Store, 207 Peachtree Street. Select Christmas Watches during the BENNETT-GORHAM JEWELRY AND SILVER SHOW, Only 5 Sundays before Christmas. Payments start in January—(adv.)

Miss Annette Hightower Makes Her Debut at Lovely Luncheon

An exquisitely appointed luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. T. Jefferson Hightower to introduce Miss Annette Hightower, her debutante daughter, took place at the Biltmore. Palms and ferns arranged in the corner of the room added to the effective decorations, and yellow, orange and scarlet flowers predominated in the floral scheme. Roses, snapdragons, dahlias, marigolds and chrysanthemums were used in the attractive arrangements on the table, and a small table in the center of the room was draped with a white cloth.

The guests' places were marked with cards bearing the name of the debutante, and the luncheon was a success in every way. The guests' places were marked with cards bearing the name of the debutante, and the luncheon was a success in every way.

Lovely Debutante Makes Bow at Luncheon

Pictured above is Miss Annette Hightower, lovely member of the 1936-37 Debutante Club and daughter of Mrs. T. J. Hightower Jr., who made her formal bow to Atlanta society yesterday at the elaborate luncheon given by her mother. Miss Hightower is a tall slender brunette with soft wavy brown hair and brown eyes fringed with heavy brown lashes. She possesses a charming personality and a sweetness of manner which have endeared her to a wide circle of admiring friends. She attended Washington Seminary from which she was graduated and took a prominent part in school activities. She was a member of the Senior Round Table, the May Court and was on the basketball team. She enjoys outdoor sports with tennis and golf leading as her favorites. During her debut year Miss Hightower has been honored at a round of social affairs given in her honor which further attests her popularity. The sketch of Miss Hightower was made by Grace Scarborough from a photograph by Asano, Japanese photographer.

Barbara Bell Patterns

A BLOUSE AND SKIRT TO WEAR UNDER YOUR COAT.

An afternoon outfit that will carry you through to spring, that's what this is. Under a fur or cloth coat it's just the thing for bridge, casual dinners, concerts or Sundays at home. That softly flowing revers on the blouse and the well-fitting peplum in back is just what the mature woman needs. And you couldn't ask for a simpler skirt pattern than this one, cut in two pieces with two pleats folded into the front panel and stitched down halfway.

It would be lovely with a velvet skirt and satin blouse, or in two shades of silk crepe, or to be more practical the whole outfit could be sheer woolen.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1958-B is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. In monotone, size 16 (34) requires 4-4 yards of 39-inch material. Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Send for the full Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderizing, well-cut patterns for the mature figure, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell Pattern Book. Send 15 cents today for your copy.

Contract Bridge

BY ELLI CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

THE 5-3-3-2 DISTRIBUTION.

With a 5-3-3-2 distribution a hand with a strong minor suit and the other suits stopped may be opened with a two no-trump bid provided:

(a) The five-card minor is headed by at least A K Q.

(b) The hand contains four and one-half honor tricks and has at least K 2 in every suit.

(c) Partner has passed previously and is unlikely to try for a losing slam.

A two no-trump bid is permissible third or fourth hand with spades A 6 8, hearts K J, diamonds A K Q J, clubs K Q 8.

This bid may, at times, lead to a successful game contract when partner is too weak to respond to a suit bid. It always will have the effect of discouraging the opponents from entering the bidding and, perhaps, finding an opportunity to make a paying sacrifice.

With 6-3-2-2 distribution the two no-trump bid on a hand containing a six-card minor suit falls into the same group with the two no-trump bid when holding a five-card minor. There should be at least four and one-half honor tricks in the hand and the minor suit should be A K Q x x or better. This bid also should be made only when partner has passed.

TODAY'S HAND.

South's jump overall was fractionally shaded as to honor tricks, but was justified by the length and solidity of his spade suit. After North's double spade raise, and East's rebid of five diamonds, South risked nothing by making an asking bid in hearts. West attempted to interfere with the answer to the asking bid by his sacrifice raise to six diamonds, but since North was prepared to give a positive answer, he merely contracted directly for the slam in the spade suit itself.

West opened his fourth highest diamond, East winning with the queen. And right then and there poor East was stuck! He could count that declarer as well as dummy was out of diamonds. He had no safe exit card in spades and either a club or a heart return would be directly up to a tenuous in the dummy.

East deserved credit for choosing the least of all evils when he decided to return a low club. A diamond or a heart return would have made things even easier. On the former lead South would discard either a heart or a club while ruffing in dummy, then would set up by ruffing the suit he had chosen to discard. And a heart return by East would, of course, have given North-South four heart tricks.

The club return might have been effective against many players in the declarer's seat, because it required a subsequent squeeze play. Dummy's jack won and every trump was run off. Dummy kept the king-jack of hearts and the ace-queen of clubs; declarer, the ace-nine-five of hearts and one club. When East had to reduce to four cards he found himself "out of luck." A heart discard would establish all three of declarer's hearts. A club would permit the cashing of dummy's ace and queen. Again East made the proper decision. He let go a heart in the hope that declarer lacked the nine spot, but that invaluable card in South's hand brought home the slam contract.

Miss Martha Burnett Makes Bow To Society at Brilliant Dance

Miss Martha Burnett, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burnett, made her formal bow to fashionable members of society last evening at the brilliant supper-dance at which her parents entertained at the Piedmont Driving Club. Miss Burnett is treasurer of the 1936-37 Debutante Club and her formal entry into society has been marked by a whirl of social gayeties planned in her honor. The interior of the handsome club was a scene of floral beauty in the artistic arrangement of decorations. The entrance of the club was beautified with quantities of yellow chrysanthemums placed in large vases on tables. In the loggia were placed two punch bowls embedded in mounds of pastel shaded flowers. The archway leading into the ballroom was banked on either side with palms and was garlanded with trailing southern smilax. The colonial columns down either side of the ballroom were entwined with southern smilax and topped with clusters of yellow chrysanthemums.

The receiving line was formed at the right of the entrance and was composed of the hosts, the debutante and Mrs. Frank T. Davis, sister of the honor guest, who was the former Miss Suzella Burnett. They stood before a background of palms and ferns.

amid which were placed the many floral baskets and gift bouquets amid the lovely debutante on this auspicious occasion and which further attested her popularity.

Miss Burnett was beautifully gowned in an imported "dress of the hour," fashioned of exquisite petal pink chintilly lace. The model was made on long graceful lines and the lace design was outlined by small cut sequins in gold. She carried a colonial bouquet of roses, larkspur and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Burnett was handsomely gowned in sapphire blue brocade satin fashioned along becoming princess lines and adorning her shoulder were a cluster of light orchids. Mrs. Davis was lovely in her model of deep pink satin made close fitting to the knees and extending to floor length in a graceful flare effect. Her flowers were deep purple orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett were assisted in entertaining by Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Savage, of Gadsden, Ala., sister and brother of Mr. and Mrs. Burnett; Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Davis, Mrs. J. O. Wynne, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Otley Sr., Mrs. E. Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Gray Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James R. Gray Jr., Mrs. M. A. Land, Mrs. George McCarty, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Adair, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. At 11:30 o'clock a buffet supper was served.

For Bridal Couple.

Miss Annie Sue Milner and W. J. Franklin Jr., whose marriage will be an interesting event of November 21, will be honor guests at a buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bowden and Mr. and Mrs. Julian Watters entertain at the home of the latter this evening.

Invited in addition to the honor guests are Misses Louise Bennett, Marguerite Dobbs, Anise Troth and Charles Gwyn, Cy Maddox, Boyd Taylor, Julian E. Watters and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Milner.

You Must LOOK BETTER—FEEL BETTER—EAT BETTER—SLEEP SOUNDER—Have CALMER NERVES AND ADD 5 LBS. of Solid Flesh After 1 Week of Kelpamalt—Malt Or Your Money Back!

How Natural Iodine in Sordol Kelpamalt Builds Worn-Out, Pale, Sickly Folks Into Strong Red-blooded Men and Women.

Here's new hope and encouragement for thousands of even "naturally skinny" men, women, and children who are suffering from lack of energy and strength have been saved by worry, who are nervous, irritable, always half-tired and ailing. Science has at last placed its finger on one of the principal causes of the dangerous rundown condition—IODINE STARVED GLANDS. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into flesh. The result is, you stay skinny, rundown, ailing.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls the body weight and strength-building—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time. NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you require metabolism—the body's process of converting digested foods into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

Atlanta Debutantes Via THE ZODIAC by Bernice Denton Pierson

"The stars incline: They do not compel."

CHRISTINE THIESEN.

June 16 marks the natal day of charming Christine Thiesen, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thiesen. This brings her birth day under the influence of the Zodiac sign Gemini. Gemini is the third sign of the Zodiac, and is the sign of versatility, quickness, adaptability, inventive genius. Mercury is the ruler of the sign.

A chart set for this interesting birth date endows her with unusual individuality, the ability to merit and receive high honors. She will rise to the heights through her own innate ability, hard work and application. The sun-Mercury position gives powers of concentration and tenacity of purpose.

Neptune-Uranus supplies the vision and ability to realize hopes, wishes, ambitions.

The position of the planet Venus gives a love for music and the fine arts.

The ruler of this chart is in the midheaven or vantage point and well aspected. This position confers friends, social qualities and positions of honor and trust.

The majority of planets in fixed signs, well aspected, gives the ability to accomplish whatever she sets out to do.

Her colors are all shades of green and silver; her stone is the emerald; her flower, the lily of the valley.

Now you can get your complete astrological forecast through The Atlanta Constitution, as compiled by Bernice Denton Pierson, one of America's best known astrologers.

All you have to do is to fill in the coupon below, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, together with 10 cents in coin to cover the mailing cost. You will then receive through the mail certain pertinent facts which deal astrologically with the sun at the time of your birth, called a sun-chart, and with this sun-chart, a series of numbers which will enable you to identify the planetary interpretations, which will be published in The Atlanta Constitution each day, dealing with the influence of a given planet on the day of your birth, according to the rules of astrology. When you have checked each of your numbers your forecast will be complete.

Below are planetary indications, according to the rules of astrology, one of which may apply to your forecast. Every day these interesting interpretations will be published, descriptive of the influence of the planets at the time of your birth. Your astrological forecast includes a sun-chart and planetary interpretations, designated by numbers on your sun-chart. Watch carefully day by day for your numbers.

NUMBER 1005—You will often be accused of being distant and indifferent when you do not intend to do so. Your deepest feelings and emotions are seldom expressed, and this often causes you to be misunderstood. There are two sides to your nature. ### YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!

BLAME REDUCING METHODS, NOT LOST POUNDS.

When slimming down to perfect weight impairs health, look into the method—don't blame the lost pounds. The harm in reducing comes from losing weight too quickly, starving on an inadequate diet, reducing without benefit of exercise, and, in some cases, reducing too far.

Fast reducing is probably the worst offender, for it necessarily means a diet insufficient for basic needs and, moreover, imposes too great a psychological strain on the reducer. There is no safe rapid-reducing system. Two pounds is as much as you should lose in a week, and an average of one pound per week is advised. After all, one pound a week is 52 pounds in a year. In all instances medical advice is indicated.

You have everything to lose by fast reducing and nothing to gain—why take the risk? You lose your disposition, the roses in your cheeks and your pep, with nothing to show for it but a fat lady's misfit skin.

A reducing diet must be quantitatively and qualitatively correct, for there is a point below which the calories cannot safely be reduced. The internal work of the body goes on all the time—respiration, heart beat, and maintenance of muscle tone—and all that takes calories. For this reason, no reducing diet should be brought below the basal requirements, which average 1,000 to 1,500 calories per day. No reducing diet should contain less than 1,000 calories per day and the average reducing diet is 1,200 calories. Of course, if you are under five feet tall, your normal calorie requirement is less than average; therefore, your reducing calories are less. This is explained in the leaflet, "Pointers to Slimness."

The limitation in a reducing diet must be in calories only. The protein factor is important, for it is the same amounts when a person is reducing as at any other time. The average reducing diet is apt to be barely adequate in protein and iron, and deficient in calcium. You cannot just leave a food out of the menu because you consider it fattening. Remember, any food is fattening if it exceeds your daily calorie requirements, and is deficient in iron, calcium, and protein. Reducing without benefit of exercise is a mistake, for exercises not only improve your figure by taking the fat off the disproportionate places, but discourage a return of the adipose tissue.

Extreme lines are never flattering to any figure, and reducing too far is a mistake, for it impairs the health. The small-boned girl will look best with streamlines, the very large-boned person may look emaciated at a weight which would be perfect for her. If you are past middle age, too great a weight loss is not always advisable. When your doctor says you have reduced far enough, stop—even though you may think you are still too fat!

Keep in mind that a gradual loss of pounds through a balanced menu plus exercise is the healthy way to a good figure. Reducing can mean improved health and a better figure—or impaired health and a bad disposition. It all depends on the method.

Don't reduce too fast! Why invite a misfit skin?

Raper Says Farm Tenant System Is Menace to Entire Social Order

Constructive Program for Extension of Land Ownership in Rural Population Is Great Need of Today, Farm Authority Tells Social Scientists.

Intelligent urban dwellers can no longer ignore living conditions among rural dwellers, except at great cost to themselves, Arthur Raper, professor of sociology at A. M. Scott College and authority on southern farm problems, told members of the Georgia Academy of Social Science last night.

Tracing the collapse of the plantation system and pointing the trail for the future, Raper cautioned against a "do nothing" attitude in the face of a crisis in "this blighted kingdom."

After tracing the history of the rural sections from the days of the War Between the States and citing causes resulting in present conditions: (1) imperative borrowings following the war; (2) determination of plantation owners to keep the negro dependent; (3) necessity of assumption of all financial risk by the landowner and consequent determination to keep the tenant propertyless to protect his investment; (4) the failure of the tenant to improve his economic position; and (5) the failure of the landowner to improve his economic position.

System Crumbling. This future course, he said, must be faced immediately because the plantation system is rapidly crumbling from forces without and within.

"The first great need is a constructive program for the extension of land ownership to the people who now live and work on farms," Raper said. Additional legislation is needed. "Provision for the purchase of land by the federal government, purchase of land, put tenant farmers on it under supervision and let them buy it with small yearly payments and low interest rates."

The house was attractively decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums, autumn leaves and other fall flowers. Mrs. Netherton and Mrs. Harold Youmans served punch. Invited were Mesdames Harold Youmans, Alfred Drake, Wallace Smith, Ira Smith, Hoyt Trimble, John Holland, B. B. Hatchell, Edward Richardson, L. M. Lester, Lamar Hutcherson, W. N. Ainsworth, Eva Thornton, Ralph Neville, Netherton Stillwell, Winton Thomas and Miss Annie Thornton.

Others entertaining for Miss Netherton are Mesdames L. M. Lester and Tom Peniston, who were hostesses at the Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Lester.

Mrs. Young Evans entertained at bridge for Miss Netherton Wednesday night. Mrs. Harold Youmans will give a trolley tea on Thursday.

To Get the Best Cough Remedy, Mixt at Home

Quicker Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This famous recipe is used by millions of housewives, because there is no other way to obtain such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs that start from colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any drugstore, get 2 1-2 ounces of Pinex, a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its effect on throat and bronchial membranes. Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough remedy, far superior to anything you could buy ready-made, and you get the full value of each drop of your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving you double relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Mr., Mrs. Bedford Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Bedford will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary quietly at their home on Pryor street Sunday. The children and grandchildren of the couple and a few close friends will assemble at the home for dinner, after which a host of friends will call to extend felicitations.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedford were married at Decatur on Nov. 22, 1886. Mrs. Bedford being the former Miss Enola S. O'Neal. Mr. Bedford celebrated his 72d birthday Wednesday. Mrs. Bedford is 66. For nearly 20 years Mr. Bedford has been connected with the classified advertising department of The Constitution.

Their five children, C. R. Bedford, Mrs. Bertha Claire Duncan, R. A. Bedford, S. O. Bedford and Mrs. Vivian Durrett, all of Atlanta, will be with them on Sunday. In addition they have 13 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Football Injuries Fatal

George A. Jenkins.

Injuries suffered in a football game Sunday at the waterworks grounds caused the death in Grady hospital Tuesday night of George A. Jenkins, 22, of 1102 McMillan street, N. W., an employee of the Atlantic Steel Company.

The youth, halfback for a neighborhood team known as the "Skull Busters," was injured when tackled heavily. He was taken to the hospital where doctors said a ruptured spleen caused death. An operation was performed in an effort to save his life.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Jenkins; two brothers, P. A. and Henry D. Jenkins Jr., and three sisters, Mrs. Wiley George Cox and G. C. Light will officiate and burial will be in Crown Lawn cemetery, under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

Final rites will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Center Street Methodist church. The Revs. George Cox and G. C. Light will officiate and burial will be in Crown Lawn cemetery, under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

The question hinges on whether local officers are state officers as well, it was said yesterday. Recent decisions are that local police are state officers. If the courts take the same position in respect to the arresting fee, the Fulton county sheriff would be forced to pay Atlanta officers the same arresting fee which he now pays to arresting officers in other counties.

Other counties pay Atlanta police arresting fees and they are turned over to the pension fund. Every one of the surrounding counties and even counties in other states make the payments, it was asserted.

The question hinges on whether local officers are state officers as well, it was said yesterday. Recent decisions are that local police are state officers. If the courts take the same position in respect to the arresting fee, the Fulton county sheriff would be forced to pay Atlanta officers the same arresting fee which he now pays to arresting officers in other counties.

Other counties pay Atlanta police arresting fees and they are turned over to the pension fund. Every one of the surrounding counties and even counties in other states make the payments, it was asserted.

ROSE OF SOLEDAD

By GEORGE E. HOLT

INSTALLMENT XX.

Shane released the girl shortly—but not too shortly. She straightened in her seat, flushed, her small hat awry.

"I misjudged your initiative, Mister O'Hara," she remarked, adjusting her hat. "My error."

"Shane," said he.

"Mister O'Hara," insisted the girl. "Shane, I tell you," said he. "Oh, all right then—Shane," she said. "But for heaven's sake don't bite me."

"And which one are you going to remember?" he demanded.

Femininity understood even so ambiguous a question.

"Both—I think," said Rose, gathering the reins tighter. "They're—they're so different. Good night! There's Don Fernando!"

"She was gone in a whirl of dust. Don Fernando, a hundred yards past the gate now, did not turn to look. He had already seen. Shane watched her until she was out of sight."

"Some girl," he approved. And then, with aching and extraordinary raciness, he asked himself a question.

"I wonder," he said, "what brother Fernando pulled last night?"

Rose Delane rode homeward mightily pleased with herself. And with the world. As any girl should be who has both of them, and thus laid the foundation for an interesting future. Don Fernando would be furious; probably he was now at home breaking up the furniture or beating his Mexicans.

Shane O'Hara would probably wander about in a daze for a while, eat his pie without knowing whether it was apple or Boston cream—and perhaps have some over to spend the evening. Don Fernando, too, would probably ride over after sunset—and after he got through breaking furniture—to look and speak sternly. And with the two of them together...

What woman isn't thrilled by such a situation? And what woman doesn't know exactly what she is going to do about it?

Before the Rose of Soledad was off her horse, her course was determined. Think heaven she had never gotten herself really and truly engaged to Don Fernando. Of course he thought it was understood—and there had been some loose talk about the sometime becoming mistress of his rancho—but she had never said yes, and her engagement finger was ringless. Something, some instinct—for she could not quite reason it out—had warned her against Fernando. The same thing that had become manifest in his kiss. At tempted intimacies, even little ones, repelled her. She could shake his hand, but she was glad to let loose of it. So as for Fernando, that evening, she would put him in his place. The idea that just because she had let him kiss her, he should think... How unreasonable men were. Absolutely without reason, about some things.

Shane O'Hara?

Shane would come in hopeful eagerness, instead of black condemnation. Fernando would want an explanation of that kiss—Shane's kiss. And would get it. Shane would want—not explanations, but—more kisses. No. Best not. Not just yet. But of course—that hadn't been an entirely one-sided kiss, like Fernando's. Yes, she certainly had kissed Shane back. No doubt about it. Wherefore... where-

Don Fernando's black mood was interrupted by the arrival of a Mexican youth from Soledad, with a hastily scrawled note.

"Dear Fernando—

"I wish you would come to see me. At once, please."

Fernando scowled at the note and scowled at the messenger.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"Anything wrong at Soledad?"

"No, sir," said the boy. "Nothing wrong. Why?"

"Tell Miss Rose that I'll wait a minute."

Should he answer the message? At least, right away? What trick was the girl up to now? She knew, of course, that he'd seen her kissing O'Hara. Was she now trying to cover up, pull the wool over his eyes? Square herself? No, he wouldn't. Let things ride—until he happened to see her. Evening would be soon enough for explanations.

He sought paper and ink; scrawled: "My Dear Rose—

"Sorry I cannot go to Soledad just now, but—

And then he rose, tore the paper to bits.

"Tell Miss Rose I will ride over immediately," he commanded the messenger.

He followed shortly.

Rose got up from a chair on the veranda when he dismounted. Faced him and without preliminaries said: "Fernando, you have asked me to marry you. Many times. I think I'll think I had better do so at once."

Don Fernando's heart leaped. So this was to be his after all, eh? Surrender. But the picture he had seen that afternoon stuck in his mind.

"I am honored, Rosita mia," he heard his voice saying smoothly. And then: "I come near to offering assistance this afternoon. But—forgive me—I thought you would not welcome it."

"I'm sorry you didn't, Fernando," said the girl. "I—I was taken by surprise."

"Shall I have the pleasure of receiving Mr. O'Hara, cara mia?" replied Rose—and let herself be swept into Fernando's arms. Received the betrothal kiss.

"Wow," Rose—when? asked the accepted lover.

"Soon," replied the girl. "A week. Will a week be too soon?"

"I'll wait as long as you wish, carissima."

"Go, then, and tell Don Timoteo and my mother," said Rose, drawing away. "They are in the rose garden."

Fernando took his departure. He was glowing. His plans had worked out. Rose was his—and the great Rancho Soledad.

The girl entered the house. Busted herself for a hurried moment with pen and paper. Then she summoned old Dona Maria, mistress of the servants, fat, motherly and kind.

"Have this note sent at once to Mr. O'Hara," said the girl. "And understand yourself, and cause the others to understand, that I am no more at home to Mr. O'Hara. I am going to marry Don Fernando a week from today. That is all."

Dona Maria nodded, repeated her instructions, withdrew, her old lips taut.

"The poor lad," she told herself. "And now that Fernando gets her! Que triste la vida! Que triste la vida!"

Dona Maria had seen much of the sadness of life.

It could not be said truthfully that the inexplicable action of the girl at Soledad gave any real pleasure to Shane O'Hara. At first he was for dismissing all women from his life of things, forever and ever, but the reflection moored him that this would be paying too high a tribute to the sex.

The apple pie on his dining table he viewed at first with distaste. But when he perceived how fat it was in the middle, and how the sweet juice had run out here and there and baked to a candylike consistency, giving promise of sufficient sweetness without, Shane ate the pie and found it good. Which was not bad philosophy.

Beneath these various thoughts was another—if it could be called a thought rather than an emotion. But it was one of those emotions which at least result in a formulated opinion, even though itself was amorphous.

Shane could not picture, as he put it, Rose Delane's going to the altar or even to a J. P. with Fernando Miller. He couldn't do it. Not any more than—than he could imagine an object being black and white at the same time. It didn't make sense. It wouldn't make sense, he thought, even if he hadn't known either one of them. Fernando Miller, in spite of whatever American blood was in his veins, was a foreigner—Spanish, Mexican. His nature was foreign.

Continued Tomorrow.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

A battle of strength.

There seem to be very few men left in this great country of ours who still believe in the old maxim, ladies first. The place where we notice this the most is at the subway or street car turnstiles. If you strike a turnstile at the same moment that a man coming from the other direction strikes it, you are up against a battle of strength. It's simply a matter of who can push the harder.

And the man wins every time. It isn't fair.

Now we have all the sympathy in the world for man. In fact, we're very fond of him. And we wouldn't insist that he stand by while a whole bevy of girls flocked through the turnstile. Nor would we hold it against him if he slipped by while we were fumbling for our nickels. All we ask is that when he sees a single girl with her nickel ready he give her right of way. And if sometimes he'd let two ladies through before he tackled, we'd sing his praises forevermore.

JEAN.

Few Issues Finish at Best; Trading Volume Is Slightly Heavier.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Selling activities late in the session today put some rather deep dents in a curb market that had climbed to a new peak during early trading.

A few issues finished at their best. These included Aluminum Company of America, finishing at 155 3/4, up 3 3/4; Aluminum, Ltd., up 1 1/2, to 3 1/2; and Singer Manufacturing 427 1/2, up 1/2.

Many other early advances were heavily shaded, and in a few instances converted into net losses at the close.

Diagraph Products Corporation, suspending dealings. The suspension, according to the exchange, was due to the condition of the market in the stock.

Transactions totaled 702,000 shares, against 683,000 on the previous day.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS No. 124

The natural pallor of Queen Zalya became a ghastly whiteness when Torgast pronounced that Tarzan must die by her hand. She could not question that such a judgment was provided in the sacred script, for only the priestly caste could read the ancient hieroglyphs.

Meanwhile, Tarzan stood calmly in the arena, awaiting the next move of his captors. Then, from somewhere above ground, came the dull muffled crash of firearms. Hope leaped in Tarzan's heart. Perhaps his friends were coming to save him from the monsters. . . .

Uls, George and Tohuu, however, were fighting now to save D'Arnot, who had fallen into the monster's hands; and they knew they would be fortunate to save themselves, for the hideous, fearless denizens of the Dead City were closing in from every quarter.

"Don't try to help me," D'Arnot shouted. "Go back! Run, Uls! Save yourself. Goodbye, Uls! I love you!" If the brave girl had required fresh encouragement, it was provided by D'Arnot's words. "I won't go back," she cried; "because I love you!"

"The world is mine tonight..."

.. he sang as his magic voice stole into the heart of a golden girl and imprisoned her with its enchantment!

A glorious romance with glorious music, packed with excitement, thrills and breath-taking climaxes!

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY
Doctors say your kidneys contain 18 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acid or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pain, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 3 million of tiny tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Toronto Publication Brings Price of $2,500,000.

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(UP)—Sale of the Toronto Mail and Empire, the largest morning newspaper in Canada, to C. George McCullagh, president and publisher of the Toronto Morning Globe, for a reputed price of $2,500,000 was announced tonight.

Directors of the Mail and Empire said the two papers would be amalgamated under the name Toronto Globe and Mail beginning next Monday. With the paper went a corner of a downtown business section where McCullagh plans to build a new newspaper building.

CHARLES VANCE COTTER FOUND DYING IN ROOM

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Last year Charles Vance Cotter, free lance newspaperman, wrote an article for the Charlotte News of the dangers of sleeping potions and other "border-line" narcotics. Possibility of death from overdoses was stressed.

Today Cotter was found dying in his room from an overdose of just such narcotics, and police, who said they believed him a native of La-Grange, Ga., with a wife and two children somewhere in Alabama, began a search for relatives.
